HARRIMAN MERGER IS LEGAL

KING SEES RESIGNS AS SHIPS OF WORLD OFFICIAL OF CITY

George V Reviews Dreadnaughts in Magnificent Display Off Spithead
American Battleship Delaware Is the First in Size and Armament

King George Thanks President Taft for U. S. Congratulations

WASHINGTON, June 24.—King George sent the following reply to President Taft's congratulations upon the occasion of his coronation: "I heartily thank you and the people of the United States for the very kind congratulations which you offer me on this great and solemn day, and for the good wishes which you expressed for the prosperity of the British Dominion and for the welfare of myself and my family. I heartily reciprocate your wishes that relations between the United States and my country may ever continue."
(Signed) GEORGE R. I."

PORTSMOUTH, England, June 24.—This was the day of ships and sailors. The king and queen and the foreign representatives at the coronation left the capital and came here for the great naval review off Spithead. Fine weather put the finishing touches on one of the most magnificent displays of the week.

Their majesties, accompanied by the official envoys of other countries, came from London in a special train. The king wore an admiral's uniform, with a ribbon of the Order of the Garter. The prince of Wales was in a midshipman uniform. The queen, Princess Mary and nearly all of the royal ladies were dressed in navy blue. With their majesties were all the other members of the imperial family. Many special trains were run from London carrying Indian princes, peers and peeresses, members of Parliament, lords of the admiralty and diplomats. The excursion trains arriving this morning added great numbers to the guests, already gathered here from all parts of the world.

SEVENTEEN NATIONS.

Seventeen nations were represented in the vessels moored in Spithead roadstead, in the English channel, being the mainland, and the Isle of Wight.

Of the number ten were battleships of the Dreadnaught class from the British navy and one visiting Dreadnaught, the German Von Der Tann. First, however,

Girl of 19 Is Heir To $2,000,000 Estate

Helen Taft's Friend, Alice Gordon, Gets All of Father's Property.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—By the will of James J. Gordon, filed for probate here yesterday, Miss Alice Gertrude Gordon, his daughter and an intimate friend of Miss Helen Taft, is made the sole heir to her father's estate, valued at $2,000,000. Miss Gordon is 19 years of age and was one of last season's debutantes. Her father at one time was associated with the late W. S. Huntington in railroad building.

MRS. HAROLD HAVENS ASKS THE COURT FOR DIVORCE

Former Leader in Society in Oakland Wants a Legal Separation on the Ground of Desertion

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—Mrs. Hope C. Havens, wife of Harold Havens, the well-known Berkeley realty dealer, society and club man, began suit for divorce in the Superior Court here today. In her complaint Mrs. Havens sets forth that she has been a resident of this city for more than three months and that her spouse deserted her on January 27, 1910, and ever since has continued to live separate and apart from her. The wedding of the couple occurred in New York on February 14, 1905.

Mrs. Havens has retained Attorneys M. C. Chapman and Eugene Trefthen of Oakland to prosecute her action. Harold Havens is a son of Frank C. Havens, the Oakland millionaire, and brother of Wickham Havens of Oakland.

ELEVEN JURORS TEMPORARILY PASSED IN DALTON CASE HEARING IS CONTINUED UNTIL NEXT MONDAY MORNING

ATTORNEY CHARLES H. FAIRALL AND ASSESSOR HENRY P. DALTON LEAVING THE COURTHOUSE AFTER SESSION OF THE TRIAL NOW IN PROGRESS.

Judge Brown Takes Part in Asking Questions

Attorney Fairall Pays His Respects to the Grand Jury

Talesmen Who Were Temporarily Passed

- CHARLES J. BOND, farmer, Irvington.
- JAMES NOLAN, retired, 159 East Tenth street.
- EDWARD PRINGLE, carpenter, 685 East Twenty-fourth street.
- GEORGE W. HOWARD, retired, 2425 Hillegas avenue, Berkeley.
- DANIEL DENAHY, laborer, 820 Adeline street.
- HENRY J. MCINTYRE, retired, 615 Forty-sixth street.
- JACOB MUELLER, merchant, 1714 Filbert street.
- JOHN W. WATSON, retired farmer, 1927 Parker street, Berkeley.
- H. W. ALLEN, former railroad man, 2308 Fulton street, Berkeley.
- CARL KRELLING, retired, 3405 Redwood road.
- JOSEPH SMITH, grocer, 225 Hollis street.

At the close of the examination yesterday afternoon of the talesmen, for positions on the jury which is to try County Assessor Henry P. Dalton on the charge of asking for and receiving a bribe in the sum of $5000 from the Spring Valley Water Company, eleven talesmen had been temporarily passed. The twelfth talesman, H. A. Petersen, a retired storekeeper formerly in the employ of the United States government, was under examination at adjournment of the court until next Monday morning.

There is no doubt but that a number of the talesmen, to whom no objection has been made, will be excused when the twelfth man is passed. Most of the men seemed to answer the questions propounded by counsel in a satisfactory manner, though there were some of them who unquestionably were looked upon with suspicion by attorneys on each side.

TALESMAN EXCUSED

Shortly after the adjournment of court, a recess was declared and when the court re-assembled, A. Kist, of 2101 Eagle street, Alameda, was excused by consent of both sides, because of his business relations with Assistant District Attorney Hynes.

Steam Schooner Helpless; Passengers Take to Boats

CRESCENT CITY, Cal., June 24.—The steam schooner Mandalay, which left that port yesterday for San Francisco with a cargo and passengers, lost its propeller after having proceeded only a short distance. The accident occurred near the outer buoy, off the harbor entrance. The vessel was made fast to the buoy, but began to leak through the shaft opening and became water-logged. The passengers were taken to Crescent City in the ship's boats, Captain Loefstrum and the crew remaining on board. The Mandalay, which is of 450 tons burden and belongs to Hobbs, Wall & Co. of San Francisco, is reported to be in no immediate danger.

Dr. McCullough Refuses to Prosecute Mrs. Raeburn

Mrs. Isabel Raeburn, who has been held by the local police charged with felony embezzlement of nearly $1000 worth of diamonds from Dr. L. L. McCullough, a wealthy Pittsburg physician, who recently paid a visit to Oakland, was released by Justice Mortimer Smith this morning on the refusal of the aged physician to prefer charges. A communication from him set forth that as the gems had been recovered he did not care to make the trip to the coast again in order to prosecute the woman. The diamonds were recovered shortly after the complaint of McCullough, by Detectives Green and Kyle, who, in their search of her room, located them sewed up in a sofa pillow. Mrs. Raeburn declared that they had been given to her and that she had kept them, for "it might as well be her as somebody else," she said.

I'll Veto Reciprocity Bill if Amended--Taft

WASHINGTON, June 24.—It became known at the Capitol today that President Taft, talking over the long distance telephone from Providence last night, repeated to several senators his determination to veto the Canadian reciprocity bill in case any amendment is added to it.

Four Hurt When Rear Wheels Skid and Machine Topples Over.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 24.—Charles McDonald, a chauffeur, who came to Memphis recently from Buffalo, was killed and four persons sustained minor bruises as the result of an automobile accident here last night. McDonald was demonstrating a car and was rounding a sharp curve of an oiled drive when the rear wheels skidded and the machine toppled over. The driver was crushed to death, but the four other occupants of the machine dropped to the floor of the car and escaped with slight bruises.

New Yorker Saves Life of Youth and Neither Suffer Injury.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Walking through Monroe street late last night, a man glanced up at the fire escape of No. 20, just as a boy lost his balance on the fifth floor. The boy screamed and the man held out his arms. He caught the boy and broke his fall, although both struck the sidewalk and were knocked unconscious.

Win Suit for Gold Dug Up in Cellar

Laborers Compel the Owner of House to Return Pot with $4000 in Gold.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., June 24.—Reuben Stockwell and S. W. White last night won a suit against Wm. Taylor to recover $4,000 in gold, which they found buried in Taylor's cellar. The two men were employed by Taylor to deepen and enlarge the excavation under his house. In doing the work they dug up a pot containing the money. Taylor claimed it and they gave it to him. Later Stockwell and White decided to sue for the return of the gold.

Dies of Joy Over Husband's Return

NEW YORK, June 24.—A few hours after her husband had returned from the Mexican frontier, where he went four months ago with the coast artillery, Mrs. Ida Hurdy died at midnight of heart trouble which, according to the family physician, was brought on by joy at seeing her husband.

RAILROADS SCORE BIG VICTORY

Union Pacific Wins Fight When Circuit Court Hands Down Decision

Purchase of S. P. 'Not Direct and Substantial Restraint of Commerce'

ST. LOUIS, June 24.—The United States Circuit Court of the Eighth District today handed down an opinion that the purchase of the Southern Pacific by the Union Pacific "did not amount to a direct and substantial restraint of either interstate or international commerce."

The recent decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Standard Oil case was cited among others by Judge Elmer B. Adams, who wrote the majority opinion. Supreme Court Justice Willis Vandevanter, while a circuit judge of the Eighth District, participated in the hearing, deliberations and conclusion in the case and concurred in the opinion. Judge William C. Hook filed a dissenting opinion.

The majority decision was written by Judge Elmer B. Adams and was mailed to the clerk of the court here. "The only question," read the opinion, "was whether the Union Pacific Company, extending only from Omaha to Kansas City on the east and to Ogden on the west, was a competing line prior to 1901, for transcontinental business with the Southern Pacific Company, whose lines extended from New York on the east, over the sea to New Orleans and thence by rail to San Francisco and Portland on the west."

DEPENDENT ON S. P.

"While the Union Pacific was entirely dependent upon the Southern Pacific for its connection westward, the Southern Pacific was not at all dependent upon the Union Pacific for its connection eastward," read the majority opinion.

"Our conclusion," continued the opinion, "is that all the facts of this case considered in their natural, reasonable and practical aspect and given their appropriate relative significance do not make the Union Pacific a substantial competitor of the Southern Pacific."

Thief Cuts Wires and Escapes with Loot When Office Is Full of Detectives.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 24.—A number of city detectives were grouped about the desk of Assistant Superintendent of Police, F. J. Kennedy, receiving instructions concerning some burglaries when a swiftly revolving electric fan on the window sill suddenly disappeared. The ragged ends of the wire to which it had been connected showed where the daring thief had snipped the wire and made off with the fan.

ROOSEVELT KNEW OF 'SLUSH'

Kohlsaat Declares He Told the Colonel of Alleged Jack-Pot Last Fall

Accused Solon's Attorneys Are Allowed More Leeway in Questioning Witnesses

WASHINGTON, June 24.—That Colonel Roosevelt has known since early last fall the entire story of how Edward Hines is alleged to have asked Clarence S. Funk, general manager of the International Harvester Company, for a $10,000 contribution to a $100,000 fund, "used to put Lormer across at Springfield," was testified to today before the Senator Lormer committee by Herman H. Kohlsaat, publisher of the Chicago Record-Herald.

Kohlsaat said he told the story to Colonel Roosevelt just before the Hamilton Club dinner at Chicago, which Roosevelt refused to attend unless Lormer's invitation was withdrawn. It was upon this information, Kohlsaat said, that the former President based his action in declining to sit at the same table with the Illinois senator.

Kohlsaat further testified that he had written an account of conversation between himself and Funk, but without mentioning Funk's name to Senators La Follette and Root. This was done at the request of Walter S. Fisher, now Secretary of the Interior, and others.

ROOT REPLIED.

"Senator Root wrote me a reply," said the witness, "and thanked me for the information. He said it had greatly influenced him in making his speech against Lormer on the floor of the Senate."

"What?" exclaimed Senator Gamble. "Do you mean to say that the senators were informed in arriving at their decision by matters not in evidence?"

"I did not discuss that question with Senator Root," replied Kohlsaat. "The witness said that Senator La Follette tried very hard to get him to come to Washington to tell about the conversation, even threatening to send a sergeant-at-arms of the Senate after him."

SCOPE WIDENED.

The scope of the Lormer investigation was materially widened today when the Senate investigating committee decided to allow Lormer's counsel to question the motives which might have prompted any official of the International Harvester Company to oppose Lormer's political advancement.

This gave Lormer's counsel all the latitude they desired in attacking the character of General Manager Clarence S. Funk of the International Harvester Company, that Edward Hines of Chicago had asked that company to contribute $10,000 on account of Lormer's election expenses.

Funk had testified that Hines asked him on behalf of the Harvester company to contribute that sum toward reimbursing those who raised a $100,000 fund to meet the costs of the election. Attorney Hancey for Lormer referred to the statement as a "creation."

OPPOSED TO COMPANY.

The attorney further said he desired to show that there were reports that Senator Lormer was not only opposed to the International Harvester Company in connection with the treatment of the Chicago river, but that he was the moving spirit behind tax proceedings as a result of which the members of the McCormick family who were interested in the harvester company, were subjected to an increase in taxes from $8000 or $9000 to $50,000.

"I do not think Senator Lormer had anything to do with it," said Hancey, "but his friends may have, and it was reported Lormer was behind it."

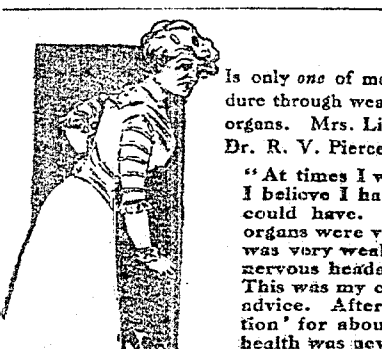

Attorney A. E. Bancroft, general counsel of the harvester company, said he knew little about the Chicago river, but he discussed tax matters at length.

"Did you think Lormer had anything to do with the tax?" inquired Hines.

"I think Mr. Hancey was right when he said Senator Lormer had nothing to do with it," said Bancroft. "We never did suspect, we never did believe, we do not now believe that he was behind it. We knew the origin of the movement and we knew it was not Lormer," added the witness.

BRANDS HIM DUAL.

Herman H. Kohlsaat, editor and publisher of the Chicago Record-Herald, was the second witness of the day. Under examination by Attorney John H. Marble, Kohlsaat gave his opinion of Senator Lormer. "This is a dual character," declared Kohlsaat. "In his private life I admire him. He has beautiful children not allow himself to be influenced by any intimations on the part of the defendant, that corporations were opposed to Dalton and were trying to ruin him, that certain persons wanted the office and that a conspiracy had for its purpose the humbling of the accused. To deprive Dalton of his office, Hines said, would require control of the five members of the board of supervisors, when in fact, the district attorney was not a member of the board.

In response to questions by Fairall, Allen said that he could not be influenced by misrepresentation of any kind.

Carl Kreling, retired, residing at 3105 Redwood road, told Hines that he knew Dalton by sight. He was slightly acquainted with Harlow, one of Dalton's deputies.

QUESTION OF SYMPATHY

"You would have any feeling of sympathy with Dalton in the performance of your duty in this case, by the appearance of the wife or father of the defendant in court during the trial would you?"

"No," replied the witness.

"Suppose the district attorney should appear as a witness here and show that he had done work outside that of a lawyer in the case, would that prejudice you against the prosecution?"

"It would not."

In response to questions by Fairall Kreling said he was an independent voter and that he had not been influenced by friends. He had served, two years ago, on juries in cases which were conducted by Assistant District Attorney Hines.

Kreling in answering Fairall's queries declared that he would take into consideration, in determining the case, the fact that the defendant had been indicted by the grand jury. On account of this stand, counsel for the defendant, challenged the witness for cause, although it was apparent that Kreling had a friendly feeling for the accused.

and his home life is ideal. But I have always opposed Lormerism."

"What is Lormerism?" asked Senator Kern.

"It is an affiliation and co-operation with the Chicago Democracy and Republicans for party pelf, for private pelf."

Roger C. Sullivan, Democratic National Committeeman from Illinois; E. S. Conway, president of the W. W. National Farmers' Company; and one Weyerhaeuser, were referred to by Kohlsaat as men whose names were mentioned in the alleged conversation between Funk and Hines regarding the $100,000 fund for Lormer's election.

Whether Hines mentioned them as men he would see about the Lormer contribution or possible contributors or as interested in the election, Kohlsaat did not recall. Kohlsaat declared that former President Roosevelt's refusal to attend the Hamilton Club dinner last year if Senator Lormer was to be present was the outcome of the disclosure to him by the witness of the alleged request for contribution to Lormer's election fund.

Pale and still weak from the loss of blood given to save the life of his wife, Senator Luke Lea today attended the morning session of the Lormer investigating committee for the first time. The entire membership is now sitting at the daily sessions.

The Admiral will visit New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Washington.

TWO RESIGN FROM S. F. HARBOR BOARD

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—The filing of two resignations formed the principal features of the meeting of the Board of Harbor Commissioners yesterday afternoon. Secretary Thorpe, whose term expires three months ago, and who has officially abandoned hope of reappointment in his resignation, and though the formality was not necessary, the commissioners ordered the document filed. Thorpe's successor has not been named.

L. E. Hammett resigned as wharfinger and John A. Sullivan was named in his place. The request of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company for permission to bid on the lease for 10 years of piers 25 and 26, when they are built, was followed by a discussion in executive session. At the request of the National Educational Association the ferry tower will be illuminated every night from July 10 to July 14.

CHALLENGE NOT ALLOWED

Judge Brown declined to allow the challenge without consulting Kreling himself and after playing the latter with questions, as regard his statement that he would take into consideration in returning a verdict the fact that Dalton had been indicted by a grand jury composed of nineteen men, came to the conclusion that the defendant had misunderstood the question and refused to allow the challenge. Fairall did not withdraw the challenge. Fairall did not withdraw the challenge. Fairall did not withdraw the challenge.

Dalton's attorney then paid his respects to the grand jury through a line of questions which were calculated to leave the impression that, regardless of the fact that the grand jury is an institution under the law, it was really a star-chamber concern which heard only one side of the case and might easily be made the instrument to wreak the vengeance of one individual on an enemy.

His questions, also, the purpose of which was to try to show that papers in publishing the news of the day, were iniquitous concerns, that their influence was based on prejudice and that they seldom published anything that was the truth.

For those who attend the hearing Dr. Wiley has formulated a formidable list of questions. These cover about every phase of the manufacture of beer, ale, porter and stout. One of the points upon which the board desires light is the meaning of the terms "lager" and "bock" as applied to beer.

STATEHOOD VOTED BY SOLONS

Committee Reports Favorably Resolution Admitting New Mexico and Arizona

Judiciary Recall Provision Must Be Resubmitted to the People

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The Senate committee on territories voted 6 to 3 to report favorably the House resolution admitting New Mexico and Arizona to statehood, with the provision that the Arizona constitution concerning the recall of the judiciary shall be resubmitted to the people. Slight amendments to the House resolution were made.

A motion to eliminate Arizona from the bill made by Senator Nelson, on grounds that the constitution adopted by the people of that territory was severely discriminatory against the Mexican element of the population, was defeated.

The amendment to the House bill provides for return of ballots used in voting on amendments to the New Mexico constitution whether they are used or not. The object for the provision is to prevent repeating.

BEYOND POWER.

Delegate Cameron's suggestion for an amendment of the Arizona constitution so as to eliminate the provision for the recall of judges failed to receive any consideration. The suggestion was regarded as beyond the power of the committee.

If the Senate accepts the House resolution and it becomes a law, the people of the two territories will be assured of statehood. The resubmission of the portions of the two constitutions is intended only to give the voters another opportunity to say whether in the case of Arizona they desire the right to recall judges and in that of New Mexico, whether they are satisfied with the strict provisions against amendments. It is provided that whatever the vote the instruments shall become effective. Chairman William Alden Smith of the committee believes the Senate will act before adjournment.

WEALTHY WILLITS MAN IS INDICTED

Harry H. Beard Accused by the Grand Jury of Land Frauds.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—An indictment by the federal grand jury on a charge of land fraud was filed in the United States District Court today in connection with Harry H. Beard, wealthy cattleman and land owner of the Northern Pacific.

It is charged that Beard induced three Indians to act as dummies in Mendocino County in taking up large tracts of land of 160 acres each. Subordination of jury is alleged.

FLEEING HUSBAND HAD HIS WORRIES

When James G. Howard deserted his wife nearly four years ago, according to the testimony upon which Grace Young Howard of Alameda obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce this forenoon in the Superior Court, he manifested enough concern for his future to write a letter and ask her how she expected to make a living, but that was all. Mrs. Howard said her husband was a drunkard and never provided for her while they lived together.

THE HERPICIDE GIRL Advises Gentlemen.

At Mrs. Blank's reception I met a gentleman who fulfilled my ideal of a man in all but one particular. He had a good head, fine physique, perfect manners, was a most interesting personality, and bore himself with the distinguished air of a gentleman. His linen was immaculate and his clothes faultless as to cut and material. But all the pleasant first impression was ruined when I discovered the collar and shoulders of his dresscoat covered with loose hair and flakes of dandruff. To me this was an indication of personal carelessness; not to say uncleanliness. I wanted to tell him to get a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide. This remedy, I thought, would, in a short time remove every trace of dandruff from his head, stop his hair from falling and prevent him from becoming bald. I don't like baldheaded men; they look odd whether they are or not. Dandruff is caused by a germ and Newbro's Herpicide kills that germ. The itching, which is so frightful with dandruff, stops almost instantly. Herpicide is the Original Remedy that destroys dandruff. There is nothing in the world just like it, nothing that is "just as good."

One Dollar Size Bottles are guaranteed by all druggists to give satisfaction.

Applications obtained at the good barber shops.

HARRIMAN MERGER NOT RESTRAINT OF COMMERCE

U. S. Circuit Court Decides for Union Pacific Railroad in Fight to Dissolve Merger

for trans-continental business with the Southern Pacific in or prior to the year 1901.

"We therefore pass to a consideration of some less important matters relied upon by the government to establish difference of competition between those companies."

INSPIRATION FOR OUTLAY

"Certainly the desire to appropriate the trilling business done by the Southern Pacific on the minor lines or to suppress a competition in traffic which was in the aggregate of such small proportions, could not have been the inspiration of the vast outlay involved in the purchase of the Huntington stock. It did not amount to a direct and substantial restraint of either interstate or international commerce. This is sufficient to bring it within the condemnation of the anti-trust law."

"This concludes consideration of the effect of the transaction chiefly relied upon by the government in this case, but it is contended that the purchase by the Union Pacific of a controlling interest in the stock of the Northern Pacific Co. was also violative of the anti-trust law."

"Without dwelling on the reason for the purchase of this stock, disclosed in the preceding statement of facts, it is sufficient to say that if any controlling interest was thereby acquired, it was lost some time before this suit was instituted, and that none of that stock is now held by or for the Union Pacific Company."

"As there is no showing of any like purpose, we fail to discover an opportunity or reason for the injunctive relief on this account."

LAWFUL INVESTMENT.

The court held that the investment of the Harriman Lines in the Santa Fe was not for acquiring control and that if it was for obtaining inside information concerning the operation of a great competitor, the case have contravened the anti-trust law. On the facts of this case with all their reasonable and fair inference, the court was satisfied that the combination was effected by the purchase of the stock of the Northern Pacific by the Union Pacific of part of the stock of the Southern Pacific road, Judge Hook says there is no difference between the holding of the corporate stocks of two companies and the holding of the stock of one company by the third, such as was condemned in the Northern Securities case, and the holding by one of those two in the stock of another. He says:

"It would be idle to hold that while two competing railroad companies cannot lawfully submit to a common control through a separate stockholding organization, they may do so, by dispensing with that medium. The language of the Sherman act in this particular is broad."

Judge Hook coincides with the majority of the court in regard to the joint ownership of the Los Angeles and San Pedro road.

ACTIVE COMPETITION.

Judge Hook holds that the question as to whether the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific roads were competitors with the Harriman line held to be against the government, was a question of fact to be decided by the testimony of many expert witnesses, and these witnesses, Judge Hook holds, gave conclusive testimony that "there was active, vigorous and substantial competition."

The dissenting opinion says that decision of the court was on two main grounds:

First—That the combination of competitive traffic of the two systems was not a substantial percentage of the total traffic; and

Second—That trade was not restrained by the combination because the Union Pacific was an intermediate through route was depended for competitive traffic on connecting carriers, which, unaided, could not make a through joint rate.

This decision so greatly narrows the act of Congress that very little is left of it when applied to railroads.

The opinion states:

"Under one of both of these tests, the Union Pacific could probably have lawfully purchased control of all the great railroad systems in the United States."

The government's suit in equity against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the Union Pacific Railroad Company to enjoin the continuance of the former by the latter was filed in Salt Lake City, Utah, February 2, 1908.

The bill charged conspiracy and the formation of a trust in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act passed by Congress to protect trade and commerce against unlawful monopolies.

The defendants named in the case were the Union Pacific Railroad Company, Southern Pacific, Oregon Railroad and Navigation Co., San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake road, Atchison Topeka and Santa Fe, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Great Falls, and the Trust Co., Edward H. Harriman, Jacob H. Schiff, Otto Kahn, James Stillman, Henry H. Rogers, Henry C. Frick and Wm. A. Clark.

NAMES AGREEMENTS.

The government's petition was signed by Attorney General Bonaparte and his special assistants. It sets forth in detail the agreements by which the defendants at times since 1901 were alleged to have entered for themselves and others the control of the various departmental roads, their branches and steamship lines and to have ever since operated them in restraint of commerce.

Since the suit was filed Harriman and Rogers have died, Judge R. S. Lovett, successor to Harriman in the railroad system, was made by stipulation a defendant. Attorney General Bonaparte and Assistant Attorney General Purdy returned from office while the suit was pending. Hearings were held in many cities of the country.

Arguments were made in the case before Judges Sanborn, Adams and Vandewater, now a member of the United States Supreme Court, October 15, 1910, in St. Paul. C. A. Severance and Frank B. Kellogg argued for the government. Judge P. J. Anderson, who presided, spoke for the Southern Pacific, former Senator John C. Spooner appeared for Henry C. Frick, N. H. Loomis of Omaha for the Union Pacific, and David T. Watson of Pittsburgh submitted a special brief and argued for all of the defendants. The judges of the eighth judicial circuit of the United States Circuit Court heard the case under advisement since the arguments. The suit was tried in the Circuit Court under the expedition act of Congress.

DECISION FILED.

SALT LAKE CITY, June 24.—The decision was filed in the United States Circuit Court here today for formal record and the bill of complaint or restraining order was dismissed by United States Judge Marshall.

WARSHIP IN PURSUIT OF MYSTERIOUS BOAT

LISBON (by way of Badjosa, Spanish frontier), June 24.—A mysterious ship is cruising off the northern coast of Portugal. The vessel, which flies the German flag, appears to be the steamer Potuto, loaded with arms, including artillery, destined for the Portuguese monarchists.

The government cruiser Adamastor and the gunboat San Rafael interrupted the operations of the steamer while it was endeavoring to land the contraband on the coast of Algarve, the southernmost province of Portugal.

The Potuto then put to sea at full speed, with the warship in pursuit.

SUFFRAGE LEADERS WOULD REFORM BERKELEY

Plan Monster Rally in Aid of the Cause for Next Month.

Ministers Refuse to Take Up Question in Sermons Tomorrow.

BERKELEY, June 24.—Prominent suffragettes of Berkeley, having failed in the effort to secure the observance of suffrage Sunday in the local churches tomorrow, have arranged for a monster rally in aid of the cause on July 3, at which Dr. Charles Aked of San Francisco is to be the principal speaker.

Mrs. W. W. Douglas, Miss Locke of Oakland and Mayor-elect Wilson of Berkeley are also scheduled to speak. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the College Equal Suffrage League in the high school auditorium.

Several weeks ago the Political Equality League, with headquarters in Los Angeles, invited the local ministers to set apart tomorrow for addresses from the public in behalf of the suffrage cause. Practically all of the clergymen of Berkeley declined to act according to the request, declaring that suffrage was a political and not a moral movement, and should not be discussed in the sacred edifices.

It is understood that but one or two Berkeley ministers will refer to suffrage in their sermons tomorrow. Mrs. C. C. Hall and Mrs. Hester Harland, prominent local suffrage workers, expect to spend some time in the attitude of the ministers, and have a rousing day in the churches, but they finally admitted their defeat.

CAMPUS ROMANCE ENDS AT ALTAR

Miss Mattie Zander Becomes the Bride of Claire H. Bell.

BERKELEY, June 24.—As the result of a romance which began when both the principals were students at the University of California, Miss Mattie Zander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Zander of 214 Spruce street, and Claire H. Bell, son of Bishop William M. Bell of Los Angeles, were married at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride.

Bishop Bell, who is a leader in the United Brethren church, performed the ceremony in the presence of 50 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell will leave immediately for an extended European tour. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Florence Zander, as maid of honor and by the Misses Hazel Wilkins of Oakland and Alice of Los Angeles, sister of the groom, as bridesmaids.

Both the contracting parties were graduates of the University of California, a prominent member of the Presbyterian Society of the university. For the past two years she has been a teacher in the Boulder Creek High School.

The groom is not a German teacher in the Los Angeles Polytechnic School, and before leaving college, was an assistant instructor here.

His bride's father is manager of the Bellevue Hotel in San Francisco.

Charles T. Cary of 466 Fifth street obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce this forenoon in the Superior Court from Myrtle M. Cary, who left him in May, 1910, and is at present living at De Soto, Mo., the home of her parents. The testimony showed that the couple were divorced once before and they decided to try it again when Cary went east in 1909 and effected a reconciliation. The second marriage took place in San Jose but it was not long afterwards before Mrs. Cary again became very much dissatisfied.

Finally she left, saying she was glad to leave California and never wanted to see it again or anybody residing here.

In size and armament, was the American battleship Delaware.

The British Dreadnaughts were the Colossus, Neptune, Hercules, Collingwood, St. Vincent, Vanguard, Bellerophon, Temeraire, Superb and Dreadnaught.

With these were four British cruisers of the Invincible class, the Indefatigable, the Infexible, the Indomitable and the Invincible.

Other foreign naval powers sent vessels of the pre-Dreadnaught type. France was represented by the Danton; Japan by the armored cruiser Kurama; Austria by the Radezky; Italy by the armored cruiser San Marco; Russia by the armored cruiser Rossa; Spain by the cruiser Reina Regente; Argentina by the cruiser Buenos Ayres; Chile by the cruiser Chacabuco; Sweden by the armored cruiser Pygma; Turkey by the cruiser Hamidieh; China by the cruiser Hai King; Denmark by the armored cruiser Wolfert Fischer; The Netherlands by the armored cruiser Jacob Van Heemskerck; Norway by the armored cruiser Eldsvold.

June 25.—The armored cruiser Georgios Averof.

In addition to the official representatives of the seventeen visiting nations, there were secondary vessels from Japan, Italy and Chile. Various types of warships were added to the British units of Dreadnaughts and Invincibles made the total British contingent 170 ships.

All the vessels in the roadstead, including the foreign warships and excursion steamers with spectators, were moored in lines, supplemented by shorter lines of submarines and torpedo-boats. The fleet occupied an area of about eighteen square miles.

Never before has such an armada been brought together for review by a monarch as was assembled in the narrow water of the Solent on this, the navy's day of Dreadnaughts.

Ranged in a parallel of six miles in length and two miles broad, floated 167 British warships and 18 vessels representing 17 foreign nations.

The aggregate tonnage of the British fleet alone was over one million, as compared with a little more than one-half this total present at Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee review in 1897.

This aggregation of British Dreadnaughts and smaller sisters represent approximately the huge outfit of $40,000,000 while after the value of the 18 foreign warships is added there was moored in this historic roadstead of Spithead an international war fleet representing a total initial expenditure of $500,000,000.

Dressed from stern to stern in a riot of bunting, the gray lines of the warships came to a head at the entrance of the Solent. The king and queen, with the prince and princess of Wales, and the prince and princess of Scotland, arrived at 10:30 a. m. to be followed by presentation of the "Reddendo" and by the presentation of addresses by the king and queen.

The queen visits the women's and children's hospital at Bruntsfield, and the king visits the Royal Scottish Academy.

July 12.—The king attends St. Giles' cathedral in the morning for the dedication of the chapel of the Thistle. The king and queen, with the prince and princess of Wales, and the prince and princess of Scotland, arrived at 10:30 a. m. to be followed by presentation of the "Reddendo" and by the presentation of addresses by the king and queen.

July 13.—The king visits the new University college at Bangor.

July 14.—The king lays the foundation stone of the Welsh National library at Aberystwyth.

July 15.—The king visits Edinburgh. The king and queen, with the prince and princess of Wales, and the prince and princess of Scotland, arrived at 10:30 a. m. to be followed by presentation of the "Reddendo" and by the presentation of addresses by the king and queen.

BRILLIANT FUNCTION.

The gala performance at His Majesty's theater on Tuesday, June 27, is to be one of the most brilliant functions connected with the coronation.

A prologue written for the occasion by Owen Seaman is to open the proceedings, and this will be followed by scenes from "Money," "The Merry Wives of Windsor," "The School for Scandal," "Julius Caesar," and "The Critic." Ben Johnson's masque, "The Vision of Delight," will then be given and the performance is to conclude with the singing of the national anthem.

The official program is as follows: Prologue, spoken by Forbes Robertson. Scene from the "Merry Wives of Windsor," in which Mrs. Kendal, Miss Ellen Terry and Mrs. Charles Calverly will appear.

The second act of "David Garrick," with Mrs. Charles Wyndham, Edward Terry, Woodson Greenham and Miss Mary Moore.

The third act of "Julius Caesar," the scene including Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree and E. S. Willard.

"The Critic," including George Alexander, Arthur Bourchier, Cyril Maude, Charles Hawtreys, Oscar Asche, Gerald du Maurier, Laurence Irving, Lady Terry, Winifred Honey, Mario Tempest, Gertrude Kingston, Marie Loehr, Eva Moore, Lillian Brulthwaite, Evelyn D'Alroy, John Barry, Mabel Barker and Constance Collier. A large number of other leading actresses and singers will compose the choruses.

"The National Anthem" will be sung by Miss Clara Butt.

RECEIVED BY TREE.

The king and queen will be received on their way to the theater by Sir Herbert Tree and Sir John Hare, the latter of whom will remain at their majesties' disposal throughout the evening. A representative of the executive committee, which comprises the following well-known members of the dramatic profession, Sir Charles Wyndham, chairman, Sir John Hare, George Alexander, Cyril Maude, and others, will be present.

When this extension work has been completed it will mean that nearly one-third of the city of Oakland will have been supplied with service pipes and that soon after connections may be made in fulfillment of contracts for water supply.

At the present time it was stated that more than 60,000 feet of pipe had been laid and that in the vicinity of Sixty-ninth avenue, customers are already being served.

On the outside balcony the columns are to be draped with imperial purple curtains, interlaced with fruit garlands bound with golden ribbons. Small growing trees will be placed all over the balcony, in the center of which a fountain of water will play.

The general auditorium will be adorned with a design in pink, white and crimson, with festoons of fruit and garlands in green and gold, relieved by crimson banners with the royal arms placed below the seats of the king and queen. In the stalls and dress circle the public will be required to wear court dress or uniform and in other parts of the theater evening dress.

There has been an enormous demand for seats and some very high premiums have been paid. The prices of these places open to the public were fixed by the management as follows: Private boxes, from $25.00 up to $125; orchestra stalls, $105; dress circle, $25 to $52, and amphitheater, $8.50.

ARE STOMACH ILLS CAUSE OF DIVORCE?

So Hints Munyon in Talk On Relation of Body and the Brain.

Success in Business Life and Social Affairs Depends On Health.

The old saying that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach came forward again in a new guise today, when J. M. Munyon, the noted Philadelphia man who has been starting San Francisco by the great success of his health methods, declared that one of the great causes for domestic unhappiness is impaired digestion.

Professor Munyon said: "The close inter-relation between the body and the mind is becoming more generally recognized in the last few years, not only among the medical profession, but even in literature. I believe the late David Graham Phillips, in one of the masterpieces of American fiction of the last decade, was first to trace in romance the connection between indigestion and a wrecked home life, but he will not be the last.

"All too often the words 'stomach trouble' might be substituted for 'incompatibility of temperament,' with less felicity, perhaps, but undoubtedly more truthfully, in domestic affairs, but in the business and social world, a person's success is dependent upon his physical well being.

WORK BEGINS ON OIL CARRIER FOR STANDARD

Oakland Yards Engaged in the Construction of Big Steel Vessel.

NEW POWER BOAT TO GO IN COMMISSION

Dredging of Key Route Basin Is Progressing Rapidly.

Construction work was commenced on a steel oil carrier for the Standard Oil Company at the United Engineering Yards this morning. The tanker will be completed in about six months and will be one of the best on the coast. It will measure 118 feet in length with a 29-foot beam and 12-foot deep. It will have a carrying capacity of 20,000 gallons of oil and will be used for the purpose of transporting oil from the coast to the interior. The new power-boat Panama, built for the Oakland Launch and Towboat Company, was taken from the Atlas Gas Engine Works to the Anderson shipyard in San Francisco today. It is being fitted out for service on the bay. The boat is about 40 feet long and will be used for the purpose of towing barges and other small craft. It will be in commission in about one week. The Golden State Meters Yards received a quantity of large timbers for use on the dredger being built there. These timbers were towed over to the yard from across the bay. The Suisun City docked at the Hunt-Hatch wharf this morning with freight from points on the Sacramento river. The Rita B was in from the river run yesterday.

DREAM OF WEALTH IS SHATTERED OAKLAND MAN IS AWAKENED

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT SINCLAIR, alias Moore. Sinclair has been arrested in Boston on a charge of swindling a resident of Oakland.

MEDIUM ARRESTED ASK RECEIVER FOR IN CITY OF BOSTON WIRELESS CONCERN

Alleged Swindle by Trick and Device Leads to Indictment by Grand Jury.

After waiting for more than a year for $700, which he had entrusted to a spiritualistic medium, to double in value, W. R. Bentzen, 1526 Broadway, an employee of the Oakland Traction Company, this week complained to the district attorney with the result that last Thursday the grand jury returned an indictment against Robert Sinclair, alias H. Robert Moore, of Boston, for obtaining money by trick and device and yesterday Sinclair was arrested in Boston by the police of that city. Captain Charles Bock of the local police left this morning for the East to bring back the prisoner.

COULD DOUBLE MONEY.

About April 1, 1910, it is claimed by Bentzen that Sinclair, who was then living at 1355 Broadway, posing as a medium, offered to demonstrate that he could, through some mysterious power, double the value of a gold nugget and that he could take any sum of money and by the same methods increase it twofold. A meeting was arranged at which time he was to give proofs of his ability. To the wonder and amazement of Bentzen during the seance the medium apparently doubled a small-sized nugget, but it was afterwards found that the operation had been performed by sleight-of-hand with two fake nuggets and the inflation of a specially prepared bladder, glided the proper color.

Complaining that he did not have a bank account that would permit any extensive operations, Sinclair, it is alleged, induced Bentzen to put up $700 in gold. When he had the money in his possession a trifling excuse was made and the next day Sinclair vanished. Bentzen, doubting he had retired to some mysterious realm where he could make the transformation uninterrupted, but as time went by and the $1400 was not forthcoming he became suspicious, and notified the police, who referred him to the district attorney.

In the meantime, through the efforts of Captain of Detectives W. J. Peterson, Sinclair was located in Boston and with the return of an indictment by the grand jury he caused the arrest of the alleged medium.

Among other feats Bentzen also claimed that Sinclair professed to be able to manufacture real diamonds. Bentzen heard of his wife, who took part in the seances.

ST. JOHN'S DAY TO BE OBSERVED

Samuel Shortridge to Deliver Address of Welcome to Grand Master.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—The Masonic fraternity of San Francisco will celebrate St. John's day this evening at a get-together party and reception to be given in the Bayview club, Sutter and Pierce streets, in honor of Dana Reid Weller, grand master of Masons of California, the officer of the Grand Lodge of Masons of California; past grand masters and inductees of the Masonic districts of the jurisdiction.

Samuel M. Shortridge will deliver the address of welcome, and Grand Master Weller will reply. A short program will be rendered, after which the floor will be cleared for dancing. The committee in charge has made ample arrangements for the accommodation of all the members of the fraternity and their families.

SMALL BOYS FAIL TO QUAIL BEFORE JUDGE

Willingly Confess That They Stole Three Horses and Buggies.

14-YEAR-OLD GIRL REFUSES TO REFORM

Minnie Cunney Is Sent to Whittier Until She Is 21 Years Old.

With the admission that they stole three horses and buggies and cut the harness and reins, Tony Harris and George Black told their story in the juvenile court yesterday afternoon, before Judge Ogden. The lads confessed to their mischievous conduct, which will cost their fathers several dollars. They announced that they also cut up the buggy robes but they could not give their reasons for their actions. They asserted that it was for fun.

Owing to the nature of the offense Judge Ogden ordered the boys to institutions where they would be kept until they were somewhat reformed. One was sentenced to the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society in San Francisco and the other to the Golden Gate Orphanage in Lytton, California, where they will live until July 31.

Harry McCann, seventeen years old, who was arrested for drunkenness, was sentenced to the same institution. He was charged with having stolen a bottle of wine from a restaurant. Upon the boy's testimony, Judge Ogden released him. Harry was accompanied by his mother, who corroborated his statements.

REMANDED TO PARENTS.

Mary Hendricks, who had stolen a small sum from her mother to purchase gifts for Miss Beatrice McCall, one of the probation officers, will be remanded to the custody of her parent, who swore to the original complaint. She was committed to the County Jail for twelve months.

The wayward and unruly tendencies of Harold Bynon were aired in court by the mother and father of the youngster, who testified that the boy used profane language, which the parents repeated in court as a matter of testimony. Harold's father was remanded by Deputy District Attorney Rogers, who said that the boy was a bad influence on his sister, owing to the interference of Bynon. The mother of the boy agreed with Attorney Rogers and said that the father should have devoted more time and attention to his child and less time in the saloons.

REFUSES TO REFORM.

One of the gravest problems that confronted the judge and officers was that of Minnie Cunney, a fourteen-year-old girl, who had been rescued from a resort by local detectives and who had refused to be reformed. She was committed to the institution, where she would be kept until she was 21 years old.

SENT TO WHITTIER.

No other solution presenting itself, the girl was committed to the Whittier Reformatory until she reaches the age of 21. The fee of $11 per month will be paid by the county. The case is declared by the judge to be one of the most difficult and hopeless ever presented to them for solution.

The case emphasized to the court the necessity of providing separate wards for the juvenile delinquents. Home for delinquents and all delinquent children, the difficulty of finding a suitable home for five-year-old Mary Busio, who is to remain in the custody of the juvenile authorities pending the arrival of her mother from the Arizona lands, was discussed by the fact that evil associates made it undesirable for her to be cared for in the Detention Home. The little girl was finally placed in the custody of the Catholic Ladies' Aid Society.

ALLEGED FAKE AGENTS ARE HELD FOR TRIAL

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—Mrs. Henrietta Walton and J. H. Langdon, arrested here for conducting a fake agency, were held to answer by Police Judge Deasy this morning. The couple opened offices in the Westbank building, where it is claimed that they sold and resold agency districts in California for $20, claiming to be the representatives of the George Clowes Company of Philadelphia.

LEFT HER NOTHING BUT DEBTS, SAYS WIFE

Before deserting his wife, Fred McLean, a blacksmith, borrowed money from the family grocery and then rubbed it in a little further by inducing him to cash a check for a small amount. It is alleged: He left many other debts for his wife to square, and for all of this Rose McLean obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce this morning in the Superior Court. This was the first suit for separation brought by Mrs. McLean, the first one alleging extreme cruelty.

MRS. JULIA S. PAYTON DIES AT COLLEGE CITY

BERKELEY, June 24.—Mrs. Julia S. Payton, mother of Mrs. Hattie H. Brainard, 2022 Lincoln street, died last night at the age of 81 years. She was the daughter of a well-known family in the German army. She was engaged by a Sacramento paper in 1895 to gather evidence against public officials of Sacramento county. He had also been employed by the same paper in 1896 to gather evidence against Baldwin for evidence in the suit brought against Baldwin by Lilla Ashley. He was arrested several times for minor offenses, and the police of several cities discovered that he had been a notorious trouble in many cities in this country. He frequently exhibited fake telegrams which, he stated, had come from a daughter of Count von Moltke, Germany's great field marshal.

BUGS BARON AGAIN APPEARS AND IS JAILED

C. J. Von Arnold, Who Married Dr. M. Delmas' Nemesis, Returns.

FAMOUS STORY OF DUAL LIFE RECALLED

Prisoner Reveals His Identity When He Begins Search for Bail.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—The checked career of Carl J. von Arnold, the "bug baron," as he is called, and who was formerly well known here under the title of "Baron Robert Ludwig von Turkheim of Mannheim," has been brought to a sudden halt. The "baron" is in jail in this city.

He was arrested yesterday in a furnished room at 1451 Eighth street by Detectives Mills and Brown, and an hour later was lodged in jail on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

The complaining witness, Dr. H. Sandberg, a chemist, living at the Golden West hotel.

Von Arnold was arraigned in Judge Sullivan's court today and his case continued until Tuesday.

Fifteen years ago the alluring tales of von Turkheim about his vast estates on this Illinois which, through his efforts, had left him captivated; Jeanine Sturteff Young, who posed as the wife of Dr. H. Delmas, the attorney who gained fame in the Harry Thaw case, his remarkable adventures with Panama, the famous story of his dual life, attracted countrywide attention, still lingers in the memory of hundreds of persons who thought von Arnold dead.

FRIENDS KNEW HIM NOT.

For a month he has been mingling with old friends, but they did not recognize his features. His efforts to secure bail and regain his crippled wife revealed his identity. He communicated with old friends, and in this way had to give the secret of his presence in the jail to his friends.

There were four others, business men, who claimed to have had troubles with von Arnold and to those complained of by Sandberg.

Von Arnold shied from newspaper men. It was his wife, a robust German woman, past 50, whom he married in Cologne, Germany, six years ago, who acted as his husband's secretary. The woman, who once posed here as the Baron von Turkheim. To her he told the story of his escapade with Miss Young. She admitted that von Arnold had been trying to live down the past by staying away from old haunts.

The story of how von Arnold had married the Young woman to get her out of the country in the hope of preventing litigation growing out of her claim against von Arnold was partly related by Mrs. von Arnold.

MARRIED FOR PAY, SAYS WIFE.

"My husband told me when I married him," said Mrs. von Arnold, "that he had been employed to take the Young woman away from this city. He never would have been discovered, but the woman, who was his true wife, was a workman was repairing it in London, and there was found proof of the quality of my husband and proof that he had married her to get her out of this country. The woman was a German, and my husband was partly related by Mrs. von Arnold.

BIGAMY CHARGES.

The woman knew nothing of bigamy charges lodged against her husband when he was arrested in 1904. At that time he was accused of having married Miss Young, while he had another wife, Mrs. Emma Paul, von Arnold, living in Chicago. The two women were in those days spoken of as the Mrs. von Arnold No. 1 and No. 2. Attempts were made to extradite von Arnold, but they were evidently dropped when he disappeared from the Hotel Cecil in London, where the Young woman left him to return to San Francisco with her babe, "Little Dell," as it was then called.

Von Arnold made his first public appearance in San Francisco as a detective, parading under the alias "Baron Carl A. von Steinmetz." He told exciting stories of adventures as a spy in the German army. He was engaged by a Sacramento paper in 1895 to gather evidence against public officials of Sacramento county. He had also been employed by the same paper in 1896 to gather evidence against Baldwin for evidence in the suit brought against Baldwin by Lilla Ashley. He was arrested several times for minor offenses, and the police of several cities discovered that he had been a notorious trouble in many cities in this country. He frequently exhibited fake telegrams which, he stated, had come from a daughter of Count von Moltke, Germany's great field marshal.

YOUTH'S FORTUNE HANGS IN BALANCE

May Lose Inheritance of $17,000 if Charge Against Him Is Proved.

OROVILLE, June 24.—Less than a week after Charles A. Meng was awarded the fortune left by his father, amounting to more than $17,000, for having abandoned his reckless and dissolute habits and having become a useful member of society, he was arrested upon a charge of having killed two girls of Chico, both under 18, with liquor.

Meng's arrest followed that of Ethel Sykes and Grace Houghton, who were found in the streets of Chico after an all-night carousal. In court they made a confession.

Meng obtained his inheritance upon a statement signed by the principal businessmen in Chico certifying to his reform. If he is found guilty it is predicted that the court will rule that it was imposed upon and deceived and Meng lose his fortune.

The marriage was entirely unexpected and created no end of comment. A short time prior to the wedding Miss Young came into prominence by creating a disturbance in Delmas' office.

STRAINED RELATION EMPHASIZED BY JUBILEE

Austria Sends No Representative to Celebration in Italy.

ATTITUDE REGARDED AS RESULT OF POLITICS

Vatican Maintains a Dignified Reserve in Regard to Festival.

ROME, June 24.—The celebration of the Jubilee of Italian Unity with the exhibitions in Rome and in Turin, has emphasized the strangeness of the situation between Italy and Austria. Emperor Francis Joseph and the government of the dual monarchy, alone of all the rulers and great powers, have sent no representation to the Italian celebrations, and it has been only in the most recalcitrant manner that Austria has participated in the International Exhibition of Fine Arts, while she was the only nation which did not take part in the Exhibition of Industries and Labor of Turin.

This is significant when one considers that the Vienna court has been allied as members of the triple alliance for nearly thirty years. Nor can it be said that Austria's attitude is inspired by a desire to spare the feelings of the Italian people, for the triple alliance was the first country to congratulate Italy over the fall of the temporal power, and the relations between the Austrian government and the Holy See have never been so friendly as the attitude of Austria is due to the ancient antagonism between the two countries, which is reaching a more acute stage now that the health of Emperor Francis Joseph is failing, and the reins of the dual monarchy are practically in the hands of the Crown Prince, Archduke Francis Ferdinand.

MANY CATASTROPHES.

The Emperor has witnessed during his long reign greater political and family catastrophes than any other living monarch. He has seen the deposition, perhaps, of King Manuel of Portugal. He went from the defeat of Sadowa to the loss of Lombardy and Venetia, from the incurable infirmity of Emperor Franz Joseph to the murder by an anarchist, besides that yet unexplained tragedy which led to the death of his only son, Archduke Rudolph.

Such a succession of sorrows induced the venerable monarch to be strongly opposed to his country participating in any conflict, and the one which might have been the most probable to Germany, even though it might have been a triumph, and the great respect that the aged ruler inspired throughout Europe. His successor will not command the same influence, so that the disappearance of Francis Joseph may have a capital influence in the foreign policy of Europe, it being doubtful that he will maintain the present attitude of submission to Germany, which is an integral part of the foreign policy of Austria. ST. MARY'S COLLEGE AWARDS MANY DEGREES

Bishop D. J. O'Connell Confers
the Honors On Ambitious Graduates.

REV. W. P. SULLIVAN
ADDRESSES SUCCESSFUL

Urges Practice of Sound Principle Advocated by Alma Mater.

Bishop D. J. O'Connell of San Francisco conferred the degree upon the members of the graduating class of St. Mary's college at the forty-third annual commencement exercises held last evening in the gymnasium, Hawthorne and Broadway. In the presence of the student body and friends of the graduates, the diplomas were awarded by the distinguished clergyman. Thirty-one received their sheepskins, including two master of arts, fourteen bachelors of science, four bachelors of education, and eleven diplomas to the banking graduates.

ADDRESSES GRADUATES.

Rev. Father William P. Sullivan, pastor of St. Mary's Cathedral of San Francisco, addressed the graduates. He recommended that the young men practice sound moral principles and never forget the alma mater, which had fostered their spiritual and intellectual growth.

The Master of Arts oration was delivered by Francis Manuel Silva, A. B., '08, district attorney of Santa Clara county. His subject was "The Hope of the Nation," in which, among other things, he emphasized the need of sound Catholic principles in the rising generation as a supplement to home training.

HONOR MEDALS.

Following is the list of the honor medals awarded:

The Archbishop's gold medal, for evidence of religion, founded by the Most Rev. P. W. Jordan, archbishop of San Francisco—Daniel E. Doran; next in merit, John J. White.

SPECTACULAR BALLET

AT IDORA PARK TONIGHT

All is in readiness for the premiere of the much-talked-of spectacular ballets and military extravaganza at Idora Park this evening. After a week of rehearsal and constant rehearsal the forty people who take part in the production are better prepared, and those who have witnessed the final rehearsals are highly enthusiastic over the grandeur of the spectacle.

Manager York of Idora has made the announcement that the ballets will be the most expensive free attraction ever offered the patrons of Idora. Thirty stunning girls play an important part, and the fight of this bunch of female warriors is said to be worth more than the price of admission. Besides the girls' drill, there will be a military episode, illustrating camp life, a pirouette dance, drum solos, in which six beautiful girls will play, duet by Ruby Leslie and Vilma Steck, and other features. The entire offering will be on every evening, but no matinee will be given. Conway's band will be heard in the usual concert, both afternoon and evening.

RAIDERS MAKE WAY
THROUGH BRICK WALL

NEW YORK, June 24.—Detectives conducting a raid on a suspected gambling den in the theatrical district late last night had to force their way through a wall of brick to reach the entrance. The wall was behind a blind door and withstood attacks with crowbars and axes for fifteen minutes. The real entrance was found to be through a cleverly involved rear passage way.

VETERANS MEET BEFORE
A GREAT CAMPFIRE

SANTA ROSA, June 24.—Several hundred persons gathered last night at the "Veterans' encampment around a campfire of blazing logs in Veterans' Park to mingle with the old soldiers and their families. The occasion was a very much and some entertaining features are planned for the coming week.

BOY OF 18 AND GIRL OF 16 UNITED IN MARRIAGE

Principals in a romantic elopement: C. EDWIN JACOBSEN, the groom, is 18 years old. His bride, who was Miss Bessie C. Boag, is but 16 years old.

Despite a prospective trip to England to study law, and for all he is a school boy, still in his teens, C. Edwin Jacobsen, of Oakland, is married, and Miss Bessie C. Boag, a schoolgirl in short skirts and braids, just 16 years old, is his bride.

All effort on the part of the child's mother, Mrs. A. Boag, of 1075 Sixteenth street, and of the youth's foster parents, to delay the wedding until the couple became of age, were futile, and last Saturday the youngsters journeyed to Ukiah, where they were married by Rev. J. E. Moore of the Methodist Episcopal church, in the presence of the bride's mother and the bridegroom's parents.

TO CONTINUE STUDIES.

Notwithstanding the marriage, however, the newly wedded pair are to continue their studies, the bride at high school all the fall and the groom, who is only 18, at law college.

"We were much opposed to the marriage," said Mrs. A. Boag, mother of the bride, who lives at 1075 Sixteenth street. "But they were so much in love with each other that we could not resist their pleas. Now they are just as happy as we are, and could possibly be, and we are all glad that we did not resist them. Edwin has just fallen heir to a fortune in England. He belongs to an aristocratic English family whose name is Boag, and the attorneys wanted him to go back to his family's home."

BESSIE HAS HYSTERICS.

"He thought that if they were separated something would happen that would keep them apart forever and refused. They pleaded with us repeatedly for permission to be married, and when we refused he had fainting spells and Bessie went into hysterics. He said he would kill himself if he couldn't have Bessie."

"My husband is a mining engineer in the Philippines and I planned to take Bessie, who is our only child, out to him so she would forget Edwin until they had grown up. It was more than we could stand, so we let them have their way."

"We have been dead in love for a couple of years," said Jacobsen, who is hardly more than five feet tall, and whose home has been at 1308 1/2 Wood street, "and so we just made up our minds that we couldn't wait any longer and got married. We knew that we would rather die than be parted."

WHY DELAY ON SEAWALL WORK?

Thomas F. Marshall Declares
That Someone Is Responsible for Neglect.

EDITOR TRIBUNE: This evening's TRIBUNE has a brief, but timely editorial on the slowness of what may be termed the mere preparatory work for the sea wall on the estuary.

As one of those belonging to the California River and Harbor League, which body, through its foresight and that of its engineer, John F. Flynn, the sea wall method of construction was decided on. Naturally from the beginning have been interested in the work, and am still alive to the importance of the undertaking.

On two different occasions I went down to the place indicated on the map where development would be expected, but I could not locate it, after a long search. On Sunday last, I went on the creek boat and tried to locate the place from the upper deck, but could not. Terrific incognito, the spot may well be called.

"When we look back to the date that the bonds were voted for this work and bear in mind that the money is in the hands of those who make a big profit on it, which does not accrue to the benefit of tax payers, there is just cause for discontent. When, also, we take into account the large number of men out of employment in this city, this undertaking should be supposed to find an outlet for them."

By the engineering reports on the Panama canal, given out from time to time, the completion may be looked for in 1912. At the rate of progress being attained by these engineers, the sea wall 1950 may see its completion. Surely someone is responsible for this delay?

Faithfully yours,

THOS. F. MARSHALL.

CHASE VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE "OLD GUARD"

IN THE TRIBUNE of yesterday there was reference to the position now occupied in the Old Guard by George Chase, formerly treasurer of Alameda county, in which an error was made. Chase was chosen for the position of vice-president and not that of president, to which place J. A. C. MacDonald was elected. There is no doubt that Lieutenant Chase is in the line of promotion.

WOMEN DRUGGED; LETTERS STOLEN

Mrs. Mary Appel and Daughter
Are Victims of Brutal Robbers.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Mrs. Mary Appel and her daughter, Anna, are in a critical condition at the Harlem hospital today as the result of an assault committed last night by a robber who posed as an inspector of gas meters.

The women were found gagged, bleeding and unconscious in a bedroom. An empty bottle, with which they were drugged, was found on the floor nearby. The contents, Miss Appel said, were forced down their throats by the assailant and caused unconsciousness.

Although the police declare that robbery was the motive for the attack, the only things stolen were packages of letters written to Miss Appel.

SKELTON MAY POINT TO MURDER OF CHILD

WINSLOW, Maine, June 24.—The police here are today seeking the solution of a mystery which has laid here lately, when children digging in a sand unearched a human skeleton, the bones of a person about fifteen years old. It is difficult to understand how the skeleton could have lain buried so shallow a grave for many months without discovery, and it may be shown that the burial of the old skeleton in this spot was recent.

GERM-LADEN MONKEYS

ESCAPE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 24.—The entire police force of Manhattan, reinforced by an army of school children, is searching today for two germ-laden monkeys which escaped within the last eighteen hours from the Willard Parker hospital. The little animals are reeking with scarlet fever germs, with which they were inoculated for observation purposes. The police have been instructed to find and destroy the simians at any cost. It is feared that they have been adopted as pets by well meaning persons who found them.

'S. O. S.; ALSO WIRE ME $$$'

Penniless San Francisco Detective Marooned Somewhere in North.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—Detective Sergeant Tom Regan is marooned somewhere with a husky prisoner, and is absolutely penniless. He left here for Crescent City to bring back Edward Cripple, and was plentifully provided with coin for the round trip journey.

The boat, according to a message received from the office, appears to have been wrecked and whether he dropped his tickets in swimming ashore with his man, or whether during the excitement he had a tussle with the prisoner, will not be known until he arrives. The following wire was received from him at midnight by Lieutenant of Detectives Munner:

"Ship wrecked off Crescent City with prisoner. Absolutely penniless. Wire $$$ for transportation for self and prisoner."

The boat on which Regan took passage was the steam schooner Mandalay and an inquiry at the local office of the company this morning revealed the fact that the only information in their possession was that the vessel had been wrecked off the coast of Oregon and that the captain and his crew had been forced to put back to port. How this could have happened, Regan or his prisoner could have explained, but the department was taking no chances and telegraphed him the additional cash.

FERRIES TO TAP SAN LEANDRO BAY

The Great Freight Distributing
Point to Be in Upper Oakland Harbor.

According to plans, which it is rumored the United Properties company is behind, San Leandro bay, at the east end of the upper Oakland harbor, and the eastern end of Bay Farm Island, will soon become great freight distributing centers, with a ferry service to San Francisco. Freight sheds and slips for lighters and small vessels will be constructed. It is planned to make this point the terminal for the system of electric railways being built to tap the cities of the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys, having their outlet via the Oakland and Antioch railway. To further the scheme it will be necessary to tunnel under the north end of Redwood Peak.

He rumored that the tunnel will be completed by the end of the year. The Oakland and Antioch railway to use in coming into Oakland. Incidentally it may mean the changing of the site for the city of this road, difficulties having recently been placed in the way of establishing a terminal at Fortieth street and Shafter avenue. The California Railway, which is to have a depot on San Leandro bay, will play an important part in the carrying out of the scheme.

LOOT IS RESCUED BY BROOM THIEVES

Clothes and Other Property Are Stolen From 3 Different
Lodging Houses.

Burglars, who have been operating in lodging houses in the city recently by the aid of a skeleton key, succeeded in getting away with a quantity of loot, consisting mainly of clothes, from three different houses, yesterday.

John Lewis, 318 Eighth street, has complained to the police that his room was entered and a suit of clothes taken. Thomas Soto, 850 Clay street, also lost a suit of clothes, together with a gold watch and chain. R. S. Leighton, who lives in the Astor Hotel, Seventh and Clay streets, sustained the loss of a suit case, one suit of clothes, a scarf pin and a leather wallet.

Santa Clara's Oldest
Hermit Found Dead

Antoine Biogramen, 103 Years Old, Is Found Lifeless in His Cabin.

SAN JOSE, June 24.—Santa Clara county's oldest inhabitant was found dead in his cabin yesterday. He was Antoine Biogramen, aged 103 years. He had led a hermit's life, prospecting for gold and giving his finds to the church. Death was due to natural causes.

NOTORIOUS ROADHOUSE
AT MT. VIEW BURNS

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 24.—The Outside Inn, a notorious roadhouse at Old Mountain View, where joy riders from San Francisco, San Jose and Oakland have passed many a convivial night, was burned to the ground along with a blacksmith shop adjoining, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, under circumstances which Constable McComb of Mountain View and District Attorney Free declare are suspicious.

An investigation is in progress. Two weeks ago the Board of Supervisors revoked the license on the place held by A. Allen, and the liquor license would have expired on July 1. Allen carried insurance on his place.

Allen is held in Oregon with a charge of conducting a gambling joint against him, and the place has been in charge of a man named Young, who has fled. Pending an investigation the police of San Francisco have been asked to apprehend him.

ARRESTED FOR LYING.

CAMERON Tex. June 24.—Four residents of Thorndale have been arrested charged with the recent lynching of a Mexican youth there.

T. G. Gore Jr., Ezra Stephens, Harry Wuensche and Garret Noack are the men under arrest. The special court of inquiry investigating the lynching concluded its sessions.

HARVARD 4, YALE 1.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 24.—Harvard defeated Yale yesterday afternoon on Soldiers Field by the score of 4 to 1, thereby annexing the second and last game of the annual baseball series between the two universities, the Crimson having won the opening game at New Haven Tuesday.

CARS USED FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL

H. Schellhaas Tells How the Thriving Institution Was Founded in Chicago.

EDITOR TRIBUNE: Fifty-four years ago in the city of Chicago, Ill., an elderly gentleman called "Father" Kent on account of his old age, took it upon himself to establish a mission Sunday school.

This was in 1858, when the writer of this account, H. Schellhaas, was a lad of 7 years. "Father" Kent, a good and faithful Christian worker, zealously began to plan his good work. He asked permission of the superintendent of the Michigan Southern Railroad, at Chicago, to grant him the use of a passenger coach for a number of Sabbaths until he could make arrangements for a proper room to carry out his plans.

CARS SECURED.

The railroadman knew "Father" Kent as a brother from a church they had both formerly attended. He at once instructed his office manager to furnish "Father" Kent with from one to a dozen coaches, enough to fill his wants from 1 to 5 p. m. every Sunday afternoon on sidetrack No. 5 in the switchyard at the corner of Gliswald and Van Buren streets. This permission was granted for as long as "Father" Kent would desire to use the cars in this manner.

This part of the arrangements completed, "Father" Kent went out in good faith in search of scholars for his Sunday school. It was then that H. Schellhaas, with a number of other boys and girls, was taken in hand by this good man and they promised him to attend the first meeting of the railroad mission Sunday school.

On the first Sunday the one car sidetracked was well filled and the second Sunday three cars were required to accommodate the enthusiastic band of children. "Father" Kent had been gathering in.

When inside of four months the demand was for twelve cars the railroad superintendent was "up a tree," as the saying is, for he did not know what to do. Now on a Sunday afternoon H. Schellhaas with 500 and more children sang out loud and clear:

"Have you spent a pleasant day?"
"Call again; call again."
"Never, never stay away."
"Oh! call again; call again."

The sound of these young voices drifting through the windows of the twelve cars reached the ears of the superintendents of the railroad. His heart was touched.

He decided to make the Sunday school leader a proposition. He would give him a lease on a lot at a certain corner on the railroad property, rent free, for a period of five years, if "Father" Kent would put up a building on the premises, to house the hundreds of Sunday school children.

BUILDING SOON READY.

The proposition was accepted, and inside of ninety days the new building was ready for occupancy, the money having been subscribed by different outside churches.

The Sunday school, as well as the railroad, was growing steadily and now after two and a half years the railroad superintendent showed up again and stated that the road would have to have the lot that had been leased to the Sunday school within two years; but he now offered another proposition—to give deed of a lot 50x100 feet directly across the street to the Sunday school, provided that they would move the building there. The lot, valued at about $1000, for this was then in the heart of Chicago, was accepted, but instead of moving the old building, the new one was inaugurated to build a large building to house the hundreds of Sunday school children.

"GOOD FOR ONE BRICK."

Thousands of tickets resembling an ordinary bread ticket were printed by a gentleman at a very low price. Each ticket read: "Good for one brick in the new railroad mission Sunday school."

Inside of six months the building was completed, equipped with modern seats and with a fine pipe organ, and everything was ready for the opening.

The imposing brick building, whose construction was made possible in such a unique way, had a seating capacity of 1000, and every Sunday the seats were well filled.

The writer, H. Schellhaas, could write many columns, giving many good lessons that were brought to him through the means of this long-established railroad mission Sunday school, and through the earnest efforts of "Father" Kent, who have helped to pave a pleasant path through life for him.

SWINDLER PASSES FORGED CHECKS

Grocers Give Goods and Money in Exchange for Worthless Paper.

More than $50 was obtained from two local merchants last night by a swindler who paid for small bills of goods with forged checks on the Walnut Grove Creamery.

C. Namy, 6401 Shattuck avenue, was one of the victims. He reports that a man claiming to be an employee of the creamery visited his store and bought a small order of groceries, presenting a check to the amount of $30 payable to George Marshall and signed by W. H. Burroughs.

T. J. Boyd, 5634 Telegraph avenue, was visited about 7:30, a short time after the Namy transaction. The swindler presented a check drawn for $25 on the same company. He received $24.05 in change.

MRS. EPSTEIN FREED
OF THEFT CHARGES

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—Mrs. H. Epstein, who gave her name as Kate Mullins when she was arrested for shoplifting in the store of Davis, Schragg & Company, and who claims to be the wife of a wealthy resident of Tonopah, was exonerated by Police Judge Deasy today. Manager Davis of the firm refused to prosecute and it was shown that the woman was ill at the time of the alleged theft.

ARGUMENTS END IN DYNAMITE TRIAL

Judge Willis Orders the Matter
Submitted On Arguments.

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—Arguments on the motion of the defense to quash the indictments charging F. Ira Bender, A. P. Maple and B. H. Connors, union men, with having conspired to dynamite the County Hall of Records, were concluded today before Judge Willis, of the Superior Court, who ordered the matter submitted on authorities.

Arguments today were similar to those of yesterday, being on the line that the rights of the prisoners were not observed when they were called to testify before the Grand Jury. The defense declared that it applied to crimes committed after the measure became a law and the prosecution interpreting the act to the contrary.

Another matter argued was the time that section 907, which provides for any biased grand jury, returns, was read to the jury. The defense argued that it was not read until just before the indictment was found, while the prosecution asserted it was read before the taking of testimony was begun.

UNIVERSITY REGENT JOHNSON BURIED

Funeral of the Well Known Merchant Who Met With Tragic Death.

SAN RAFAEL, June 24.—The funeral of Frank S. Johnson, one of the regents of the State University and millionaire merchant who was killed by an electric train at Kentfield last evening, took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from St. Paul's Episcopal Church in this city. The Rev. G. Cutting, the pastor, officiated.

The body will be temporarily placed in the vault of Mount Tamalpais Cemetery. Telegrams offering sympathy arrived from every part of the United States throughout the day.

Coroner Sawyer has prepared a list of witnesses of the accident and those will be called upon to testify at the inquest, the date of which has not yet been set.

WANTED: BALLOON, BY KANSAS CITY

The Destruction of Big Gas Bag
Puts Place Out of the Running.

KANSAS CITY, June 24.—Unless the Kansas City Aero club can borrow a balloon with a capacity of about 50,000 cubic feet, this city may not be represented in the national aviation meet to be held here next month. According to George Myers, president of the club, the destruction of the Kansas City balloon in St. Louis last night will necessitate borrowing, as a new bag cannot be constructed in time for the elimination races.

Myers said last night that there are several balloons of the required size that are not entered for the race, and an effort to get one of these will be made.

CHANGE TIME OF SIGHTSEEING CAR

Visitors Will Have Chance to View Alameda County Exhibit.

The Oakland Traction Company, commencing tomorrow, will change the schedule of the sightseeing car, inaugurated about a week ago, so that visitors will have an opportunity of viewing the heart of the business section of Oakland, and incidentally paying a visit to the Alameda County Commission exhibit, maintained at the Chamber of Commerce.

The car will make a stop-over at Thirteenth and Franklin streets daily between 1:10 and 2:10. The change is a result of a request coming from the merchants of the city. The traction company's project is meeting with decided success. Many visitors from Oakland and San Francisco daily take advantage of the opportunity to see the points of interest in the county, the trip taking in Berkeley and Alameda.

THREE WITNESSES
IN DIEGLE CASE

COLUMBUS, O., June 24.—The state had three more witnesses to introduce in the case of Rodney J. Diegle, accused of abetting in the alleged bribery of a member of the legislature when the hearing was resumed in Judge E. B. Kinkaid's court today. They are K. M. Turner of New York, lecturer of the Bible school that enabled a stenographer in another room to record conversations during which it is said bribes were offered and taken; R. R. Walcutt, court stenographer, who made a record of these conversations, and W. G. Pengelly a handwriting expert.

ACCUSES HUSBAND OF BEATING HER

Josephine Petersen applied this forenoon to the Superior Court for a divorce from Oscar Petersen, who is a switch-tender in the employ of the Southern Pacific Company. The wife says that despite the fact that she is suffering with cancer of the stomach and has to lie in bed most of the time, her husband had repeatedly beaten her, called her vile names and brutally said, "the supposed she would lie there another six months before she died."

RESERVED SEAT TICKETS

for Mr. Mills' Sunday evening lecture on "The Psychic Powers of Man," at Maple Hall, will be given away, so long as the card, by Bowman, drug store, and at Mrs. Mills' morning and afternoon services.

COMMITTEE WOULD DODGE SUFFRAGE

The Members of Chamber of Commerce Perplexed
by Appeal.

"What shall we do?" was the question propounded by Irving Kahn, chairman of the progress and prosperity committee, to the members of that body last night. Instead of the usual vociferous answers there was perplexity plainly written in the face of every man in the gathering.

The remark of the chairman related to the matter of allowing special speakers, from the Equal Suffrage League to invade one of the meetings.

Some time ago a communication was received by the organization from the suffrage association requesting permission to send speakers to debate on the justice of giving the vote to women. The matter was referred to the executive committee, of which Fred Reed is chairman.

Over an hour was spent before the matter was postponed until next Friday, the time consumed being due to the apparent unwillingness of the married men to say either yes or no. It was the sense of the committee that the question of "votes for women" is the hardest proposition ever put up to it.

The executive committee was authorized to take up the matter of endorsing the Harbor View site for the Panama-Pacific Exposition. The question will be discussed with the Chamber of Commerce directors.

WELLER GREETED BY LOCAL F. A. M.

Grand Master Dana Reid Weller Is Guest at Big Banquet.

Representatives from all the Masonic lodges of this city greeted Dana Reid Weller of Los Angeles, grand master of the order, at a dinner and reception tendered him last evening in Scottish Rite Cathedral, Fifteenth and Madison streets. Fraternal greetings were extended to the distinguished official, whose visit to this city had been looked forward to by the members of the local lodges for several months.

Three members from each lodge arranged the affair, which was a brilliant success. During the evening musical numbers were given by the Masonic law firm and speeches were delivered by E. H. Hart, past grand master of Live Oak Lodge of Oakland; Captain W. J. Peterson, past master of Brooklyn Lodge; Robert E. Gaylord, and Grand Master Dana Weller.

Among those in Weller's party were: Grand Junior Warden W. P. Filmer of San Francisco, Grand Senior Warden Alonzo Monroe of Eureka, Grand Secretary John Wheeler of San Francisco and Grand Lecturer Thomas J. Baker of San Francisco.

PHOTOGRAPHY NOT ART, SAYS COURT

At Least Women Working in Galleries Are Not Artists, Decides Judge.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—A novel defense was set up in Judge Deasy's court this morning when Charles Buson, a Kearny street photographer, was found guilty of violating the eight-hour law for women and was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 with the alternative of twenty-five days in jail.

Buson was arrested for employing Wanda Stolz, a model, Louise H. H. (than the law permits, and following his conviction, Attorney Gerald Halsey requested a dismissal, saying that his client came under the category of an artist and was therefore exemptable to the statute. It was counsel's contention that Buson's employees were artists whom the new law could not reach. The court asserted that there was much of male in the photographing of models, and that developing and printing and retouching could not come under the category of art.

Attorney Halsey gave notice of an appeal to the supreme court.

GOODMAN TO SPEAK AT MEN'S MEETING

The men's meeting at the Young Men's Christian Association building, Twenty-first street and Telegraph avenue, will be addressed by Fred S. Goodman of New York City. Goodman is the international secretary of the Bible study department of the Young Men's Christian Association. Goodman takes for his subject, "A Religion for Twentieth Century Men." This meeting will be held at 4 o'clock and the music for the afternoon will be furnished by the Y. M. C. A. trio.

HUSBAND DISAGREES WITH WIFE; COURT WITH BOTH

Rosa Lucelle Rudolph, whose place of residence in Oakland is "right down town," according to the testimony upon which she failed to get a divorce this morning in the Superior Court, is still anchored to Anchor Norman Rudolph, because of the insufficiency of her complaint. The wife charged Rudolph with desertion, telling the court that they could not get along together and mutually agreed to separate.

"Mr. Rudolph simply went his way and I went mine," Mrs. Rudolph told the court, "and that is all there was to it." Judge George L. Jones of Nevada County could not see it in that light, and denied the decree. He said there was with the knowledge and consent of Mrs. Rudolph.

for Mr. Mills' Sunday evening lecture on "The Psychic Powers of Man," at Maple Hall, will be given away, so long as the card, by Bowman, drug store, and at Mrs. Mills' morning and afternoon services.

Trade Organization and the Sherman Law

The indictments returned against fourteen Chicago lumber dealers for violating the Sherman anti-trust law are singular in one respect. The indicted men are retailers, not wholesalers, and they have been indicted for forming a combine against wholesalers and manufacturers. Usually manufacturers and wholesalers are accused of combining against the middlemen and through them the consumers.

The Chicago cases are a reversal of the rule. As outlined in the dispatches, the Chicago retailers organized and dictated terms to the wholesalers. If they organized to dictate prices and terms of sale to the wholesalers they must have been in a combine to dictate prices and terms of sale to their customers. An association so powerful would not overcome the most formidable obstacle and then halt before the easiest.

But the peculiar fact is that an organization of middlemen seems to have succeeded in getting the upper hand of manufacturers and wholesalers. They kept a black list, had a special organ—a so-called trade paper—and apparently had the wholesalers and manufacturers under their thumb. Such an anomalous condition has not heretofore been brought to public attention so far as our information goes. The boot has been on the other leg heretofore, if we except the combines of middlemen engaged in marketing fresh fruit and vegetables on commission.

In Chicago the combine was formed by retailers who bought and sold on their own account. The power of the retailers' organization was wielded through the bureau of information, according to the indictments, and by a scheme resembling an alleged blacklist published in the Scout, a trade paper published by Arthur L. Holmes. The Scout was named in the list of overt acts as the means by which the secretaries published to the trade the names of manufacturers and wholesalers who sold to consumers. The names of more than one hundred concerns, including the big mail-order houses and wholesale dealers from Pennsylvania to the Pacific Coast, were shown by documentary evidence given the Grand Jury to have appeared in the publication as having violated the prescriptions of the retailers, who, it is said, retaliated by refusing to purchase goods from those who had offended. The members of the board of information were also charged with having maintained a system of espionage over the business affairs of wholesalers and manufacturers, and having published letters and bulletins showing "unethical" conduct on the part of the wholesalers and consumers in selling goods direct to consumers.

The finding of these indictments against the Chicago lumbermen will rudely disturb the fancied security of men associated in similar combines to restrict trade and impose onerous and oppressive conditions on either customers or jobbers. Every combine to fix prices and terms of traffic, whether of sale or of purchase, is violating the provisions of the Sherman act. Every combination of this character interchanges information regarding customers, keeps a black list and operates in accordance with the terms of an agreement of some sort or another. Generally conditions are embraced in what is known as a "gentlemen's agreement," which is entered into by a committee ostensibly appointed for an entirely different purpose. These agreements enter into every branch of business and largely influence trade operations. They exist in the insurance field and even in banking. Indeed, they are encountered everywhere. And their influence is in many instances salutary, for they promote financial stability and security in business. Often combinations are formed on one side to offset and combat combinations on the other. The producers combine to protect themselves from combines of middlemen and middlemen combine, as in Chicago, to protect themselves from combinations of manufacturers and wholesalers. Workmen organize for self-protection and employers do likewise. How far these combinations are hurtful to the public interests has not yet been demonstrated. That they serve many good purposes cannot be denied. But the significant fact is that all of them appear to be in conflict with the provision of the Sherman law. Perhaps the Federal Supreme Court had this idea in mind when it declared in the Standard Oil decision that "the rule of reason" should be followed in construing the law.

It is to be hoped that every man who carried the Bible aloft in the Sunday School parade carried the precepts of the Christian religion in his heart. Doubtless such demonstrations have an inspiring effect, but they are far from expressing the real purpose of religious life. That is anything but spectacular; it is not a code of morals or a system of proverbial philosophy, quite the contrary. In reality it is a frame of mind coupled with a rule of conduct guided by a responsibility to the divine power. It is all very well to exhibit the Bible as an emblem of faith, but unless the message it conveys reaches the heart, colors the emotions of the soul and influences the daily life of men, the exhibition is valueless. Men are not made Christians by the rite of baptism, but by the actual cleansing of the heart that baptism symbolizes. No man is a follower of Christ simply because he carries a Bible aloft in a procession, but he is a Christian if he carries it in his heart and obeys its commandments in his daily walks and pursuits.

The international seamen's strike has been ended by compromises made separately. It failed as a concerted movement, but the toilers of the sea gained concessions nevertheless. They managed to get a world-wide hearing for their grievances, and have gained something in the way of better pay and better treatment. It has been stated that they took the wrong way to remedy their grievances, but no one has undertaken to point out the remedy they should have adopted or even a better remedy than the one they invoked. The disturbance they created in the ocean-carrying trade compelled an examination into the conditions of employment on the sea. That examination itself is worth something. It proved that the seamen were justified in many of their complaints. When wrongs are proved and made known, a long step is taken toward rectification. Hence the strike was not in vain, but has indeed served one good purpose.

La Follette on Reciprocity.

"The Beef Trust regards President Taft's Canadian deal as a good thing," says Senator La Follette. "It means free cattle and sheep for the packing houses." What nonsense! Canada is not a sheep-breeding country, and the Beef Trust exports dressed meats to Europe. But we are complaining of the high cost of living in this country, particularly of the high prices charged for meat. Yet a proposal to cheapen the cost of living is treated as akin to treason. The Wisconsin Senator argues that reciprocity with Canada will cheapen the cost of bread, meat and dairy products in the United States, and hence should be rejected. Is this argument addressed to greed or humanity?

Does La Follette seriously contend that the taxing power of the government should be employed to make food dearer and the lot of the poor harder? However, he evades this phase of the controversy by making the remarkable statement that the Beef Trust will absorb all the duties remitted on Canadian slaughter stock and be in a position to still further depress the prices paid for American cattle. He says the American consumer would be still more at the mercy of the meat barons.

Such assertions are ridiculous. They are contrary to the teachings of common sense and the lessons of practical experience. Furthermore, the representation that the trusts are in favor of the reciprocity agreement is an impudent falsehood. The wood-pulp and paper manufacturers, the coal and iron mine owners and the Lumber Trust are all fighting reciprocity tooth and nail. To offset this visible and undisguised fact, La Follette tries to beguile the American farmers and consumers with humbug so rank as to create doubt whether the Senator's ambition has not sapped his reasoning powers. It has evidently made him indifferent to the truth and oblivious to the elementary laws of economics.

A grave mistake will be made if the new manual training school be located at one end of town, remote from the center of population and accessible by a single car line. Direct transportation facilities should largely influence the selection of a site, which should be as near the geographical center of the city as circumstances will permit. The location of the school should be permanent, and it should be made with a view to future growth and development. For these reasons, if no other, the school should not be set off to one side of town. The selection of a site is complicated by topographical conditions and by the fact that few tracts of land of sufficient size are available for purchase with the sum at the disposal of the municipality. But all things considered, the question comes back to the simple one of accommodating the greatest number—not merely the greatest number now inhabiting the city, but the greatest number likely to inhabit it ten or twenty years hence. This should be an invincible argument in favor of a central location near the main lines of the street railway system. A mistake in locating the school cannot be remedied in the future.

Secretary Wilson says the poultry yard gave a cash return of $700,000,000 to the American farmers in 1909. This year he thinks the value of the poultry and eggs produced in the United States will approximate $1,000,000,000. This is equal to the value of the cotton crop and more than the value of the wheat crop. The corn crop alone sells for more money than the products of the poultry yard. California is still behind in poultry breeding.

GOTHAM'S NEW SKYSCRAPER

The Woolworth building, which is being erected at the southwest corner of Broadway and Park Place, by F. W. Woolworth, the 5 and 10 cent store man, will be finished a year from next fall. This building of which very little has been made known, will be the tallest office building in the world. It will be fifty-five stories high, and next to the Eiffel Tower in Paris will be the tallest structure that has ever been erected. It will be taller than the Metropolitan tower, which now holds the record by fifty feet, and will be thirteen stories nearer the clouds than the Singer building, the next tallest structure. According to specifications of Cass Gilbert, who designed the structure, it will measure 750 feet from the tops of the cupola down to the street level and will contain more than 20,000 tons of steel girders, thirty-six elevators, 13,200,000 cubic feet of space. A swimming pool in the basement, an observatory station in the tower, four self-containing stairways, and the coat will be more than $7,500,000. The main structure will be twenty-nine stories high and will measure 152.1 feet on Broadway, 137.10 feet on Park Place and 122.6 on Barclay street. One of the principal features of the building will be a tower which will rise from the main structure 368 feet. It will be twenty-six stories high and will be 86 feet wide and 84 feet long. On the top of this will be an immense electric light which may be seen for miles around the country. On the fifty-fourth story will be the observatory, which Mr. Woolworth proposes to open to the free use of the public. There will be four self-containing stairways which will run from the top of the tower down to the street. These will be separated from the corridors and offices by fireproof walls and wire glass doors. This will make these stairways not only fireproof, but smokeproof as well. Besides, there will be an outside stairway, which will be built in the court. This will be accessible from the corridors of each wing. The elevators will also be inclosed with iron and wire glass doors.—New York Sun.

STORIES THEY TELL

One On the Conductor.
Some time ago a man at Ypsilanti, Mich., became crazed on the subject of hypnotism and was sent on a Michigan Central train to an asylum. When the conductor asked for tickets the crazy man began telling him of his hypnotic powers.
"I'll hypnotize you," he said.
"Fire away," replied the conductor.
The man made several passes before the conductor's face.
"Now you're hypnotized," he said.
The conductor looked the part the best he could.
"You're a conductor," the hypnotist said.
"That's right," replied the victim.
"You're a good conductor," went on the hypnotist.
"Right again," said the conductor.
"You don't smoke, drink or swear at the passengers. In fact you do not steal a cent."
"That's right," asserted the conductor.
The hypnotist eyed him for a moment, then said:
"What an awful fix you'd be in if I left you in this condition!"—Wasp.

MEN AND WOMEN

When Professor Charles Zuehlke of Harvard was last in Kansas City he immediately sought out L. H. Flery, assistant manager of the Coates house, who was his boyhood friend. They had played on the same village baseball team and were chums at school. One afternoon Mr. Flery and Professor Zuehlke went to Evanston to play golf. The professor is almost an expert at the game. He was constantly addressed as "professor." Finally Mr. Flery's caddy whispered to him:
"Is he a professor of golf?"
"Oh, no, my boy," Mr. Flery answered, "he's a professor in a university."
The caddy studied a moment and then said, with a decided show of disappointment:
"Shucks, is that all?"—Kansas City Star.

WOMAN, THE INFERIOR.
Woman is nearer the savage state than man. Her only function is to bear children.—Professor Sargent of Harvard.
She is nothing but a woman with a voice that sings and a sweet. Making sacred all she touches, e'en the dust beneath her feet. With a sigh that's sweeter yet. With a look that makes you wonder and weakly yield to fear. Just a woman who is pure. With a faith serene and sure—Who has made you somewhat better since the moment when you met.
She is nothing but a woman of a lower type than man. Her development restricted, fashioned on a poorer plan; Learning little as the ages and the aeons roll away. Made to serve a single purpose and re- member and forget—Just a woman in whose eyes All that's true and tender lies. Just a woman claiming graces such as angels only have.

She is nothing but a woman who when days of trouble come—When the friends of fairer moments turn their faces and are dumb—Hovers near with tender glances and with words that soothe and cheer; Just a woman, hoping gravely when you weakly yield to fear. Just a woman clinging fast To the love that at the last Shall become your sweet salvation, as the farther shores appear.—Chicago Record-Herald.

FIREPROOF SLEEPING CARS

Have you ridden on one of the new "steel sleepers"? "You will, Oscar." And when you do you will make your own reflections. Mine concerned themselves largely with yours, so to speak. What is the average American going to make of this upsetting of his habits of mind, this dislocation of his preconceived standards? It was remarked of the American sleeper after a specially grown "holocaust" that, as Dr. Johnson maintained that being in a ship was being in a jail with the chance of being drowned, so being in this being in a jail with the chance of being burned to death. Now that is the precise peril which is evidently and ostentatiously averted from you in the new sleeper. Whatever happens to you in the night, it will not be combustion. That is assured by the sheets of smooth steel which surround you, garnished with nothing but a punctuation of rivets, and you feel through the floor covering, presumably of asbestos, other sheets of the same. But what strikes you next to this grateful sense of incombustibility is the violent break with all the traditions of the Pullman. The builders have not troubled themselves in the least to exorcise a system of appropriate, or inappropriate, decoration for the new construction. If to paint sheet steel a dull maroon and to mark the borders of its panels with a thin black line be decoration, this is "decorative." If not, not; for there is nothing else to be seen, nothing but a sea-green silk curtain draping the portal of the dressing room at each end, within your respective one of which, to be sure, your baser nature may still receive such solace as tobacco and your aesthetic as the sheen of exposed nickel-plated plumbing can supply. The plumber, it appears, unlike the steelworker, refuses to be reduced to his simplest expression. But the plumber alone exceeds the irreducible minimum. Elsewhere the essential, the quintessential, is all. The passenger never before had it so borne in upon him that to the railroad a passenger is but a package, a canned and soldered package. The wayfarer innocent of French, for the first time understands why, in that ridiculous language, a "sleeper" is also a "wagon bed."

After the shock has subsided of finding yourself in a cell instead of a boudoir, you discover that you like it. Why should he who does not live in a palace travel in a palace, or, for that matter, he who does?—Scribner.

CHINESE SCHOOLGIRLS

A friend of mine who has just returned to Peking from Yunnan, sends me the following interesting note on the conditions prevailing in that part of Yunnan which adjoins British territory.
"The change that will tell most for the good of the province is the spread of the educational movement. In the Tali and Yungchang prefectures many new schools have been opened, where teaching is being conducted on new principles. Formerly any dirty little cubicle served as a schoolroom, and a crowd of unkempt youngsters, presided over by an ill-paid, bespectacled pedagogue, produced appalling discord by reciting, at the top of their voices and each at a different key, passages from the classics. Now one enters a spacious, well-lighted room, with orderly rows of desks, where sit the boys poring more or less silently over their tasks. Only five years ago a Yunnanese girl who could read was a rarity, one who could both read and write a phenomenon. Now in every town one or more buildings bear outside the legend in Chinese, 'Elementary School for Girls,' and any morning one may meet hordes of little maidens bound thither, clad in long, dark blue gowns, and their hair in neatly plaited queues. None but girls with natural feet are admitted to these schools, a sensible rule which the officials are determined to maintain. For the foot-binding custom is dying in Yunnan. There are two simple reasons for this. In the first place, none of the women of the hill tribes, who are regarded as savages by the Chinese, bind their feet. Again, all families with any pretensions to social rank own one or two slave girls, who strict custom, based on convenience, demands should go barefooted. If, therefore, the Yunnanese mother continues to practice foot-binding, it is chiefly with the idea of distinguishing her daughters from her hand-maids."—Peking Correspondent London Times.

20 YEARS AGO IN OAKLAND

A party of university boys left yesterday for a two months' walk through the Sierra in the vicinity of Yosemite valley. They were: Fred S. Pheby, Will A. Fine, Walter Henry and Tom Pheby. Tomorrow they will be joined by John R. Coot, Joseph N. LeCombe of Berkeley and Charles P. Tapp of San Francisco.
Among the Oaklanders who are leaving on their summer vacation are the following: Mrs. T. J. Donnell, Fred Chapman, Isaac Requa and Miss Requa, Mrs. A. C. Schroeder, Robert Leet, C. E. Palmer, J. S. Adams, Miss Myrtle Davis, Frank Baer, H. O. Trowbridge and family, Henry Holdsmith, Arthur Baker, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Cutting, B. C. Dick, Giles H. Gray and family, William Sutherland, Mrs. E. GOSSIP FROM SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLIES

She Bought the Socks

A very prominent young clubman here in town the other day entered into a wager with a young lady. What it was all about has nothing to do with the story. Their respective forfeits were a box of candy and a pair of silk socks. And the lady lost.

Being a true sport, she went forth to purchase the socks despite the protests of the man in the case, who insisted that it would be a pleasure to go barefoot for her. She directed her steps toward one of the larger men's clothing houses, and presented herself at the hostelry counter with what she fondly hoped was a matronly air. The clerk who came forward to wait on her had a purpose in life. He was a very earnest young gentleman, with propriety written all over his solemn countenance.

"What can I do for you?" he asked. "I should like to look at some socks," she remarked, with the wearied, blasé air of a woman who has been the mother of fifteen children and has hopes of breaking her own record.

The clerk was duly impressed. "How old is he madam?" he asked. "The girl gasped. The blasé air fled in headlong rout and her eyes opened wide in amazement."

"Why—why—" she stammered, "he's—must be—why, he's a grown man." The purveyor of socks retained all the graven stolidity of an English butler. He shot the next question at her with faultless precision.

"What size does he wear?" "Now, this was a poser. The gentleman's feet had never before been brought to her notice. In fact, she wasn't quite sure that he had any feet, and she looked appealingly at her tormentor.

"I'm sure I don't know," she remarked with crimson face.

By some internal process located in the region of his brain, the clerk arrived at the enlightening conclusion that the lady before him was a bride. "All the world loves a lover"—forthwith his adamant front melted, and he became helpful, sympathetic and resourceful.

"These too bad," he remarked; "but I'll tell you what we might do. If you happen to know the size of his shoe, I could figure from that."

Ignorance may be bliss in some cases, but it's uncomfortable in others, so the maid looked wise and said:

"Why, certainly, how very stupid of me." And she beamed on the clerk with unmistakable approval. "He wears a number ten, I'm sure."

The clerk looked puzzled. "Are you quite certain?" he asked. "A number ten shoe would fit a very large man."

"Oh, but he isn't a large man," she cried. "He's just about my height."

The matter of shoe was finally adjusted by guesswork, and the attention of the two was turned to appropriate color. The clerk possessed an aesthetic soul, and reviled in shades of rainbow pink and cerulean blue, but the girl was firm, and picked out black. With the last detail attended to, and the package at the wrapping counter, she breathed a sigh of relief, but the worst was yet to come.

Leaving over the counter, the good salesman suggested with the manner of being a help to the family, that as a little surprise party she take "him" home a suit of something or other of underwear.

"I said it wore like iron, was soft as kid, and fit like new skin. She, however, declined the underwear as a gift, and grasping the hard-won socks firmly to her breast, beat a hasty retreat.

Moral—Don't buy socks for a man until you've married him. It's apt to be embarrassing.—News Letter.

He Was a Real Plunger

The Lookeron has always felt a certain respect for a real plunger. There are so few real ones. John Y. McKane was that sort. He died the other day at St. Luke's Hospital. He was born a Canadian in Montreal, the city of fervor and snow. Later he became a picturesque figure in mining operations in Nevada, and afterward California came to know him well. He called himself a Canadian-Californian, and it was about as good a definition as could be tagged on him. His personality and nerve carried him anywhere. He was the sort of man that only the North and West produce. He had a gift of oratory as colorful, crisp and significant as a red autumn with a nip of the frost, and the height of the hills in it. He had a fine scorn for most things that men sought, but what he wanted he wanted, and he usually got it. Then as often as not, he would throw it away. When he lost one fortune he quickly made another. It was as easy for him to make money as it is for some men to slander women. He went his own way, and while it was not exactly a pious one, it was bulky to watch. He was one of the characteristic figures of the West—a good winner and a good loser; a straight-cut man in every fighting, vibrant atom of him. He loved a thousand friends, and a thousand enemies, and enemy and friend alike respected him. If he should live again, he would do it all over again with even twice as much vim. He was of a breed that is fast thinning out—giving away to ordinary grubbers. We note his passing with regret. Wherever his spirit has flown, it will surely be capable of taking care of itself.—News Letter.

Dick Havey Going Blind

One of the best known of race track men in this part of the world is threatened with the loss of his eyesight. Dick Havey who began life as a jockey and who has seen a great deal of history made on the American turf, has been blind by his physician that it is only a question of when he will be totally blind. Fortune has not smiled on "Dick" in these latter years which have been so perilous years for most followers of the track, so he must make a sacrifice to secure the medical attention and the comforts which his unfortunate condition demands. Years ago he rode the winner in the American Derby and the owner of the horse had a picture of the animal painted at a cost of $1000. Experts in horse pictures have declared this one of the best in America.—Town Talk.

The Lady Was Shocked

Harbor Commissioner George H. Hill was very much shocked the other day—at himself; so was the lady. The honorable commissioner had just returned from a tour of inspection of the north end of the waterfront. Quaking quays and tottering piles had so shaken his mind that he was no longer responsible for the exact manner of his utterances. Consequently when he met District Attorney Fickert in front of the flower-stand at the ferry he proceeded to let loose some of his feelings. He had almost finished when a lady wearing a short walking skirt stopped near them, evidently waiting for some one.

"Well, it doesn't look so bad at a glance," summed up Fickert, casting an eye about at the ferry structure. "But it's the underpinning that counts," declared Hill. "I tell you they are bent and wobbly, and the truth should not be hid."

It was at this moment that he noticed the lady. She was regarding him with the look of a tigress. Then, as the commissioner blushed and Fickert smiled, she moved away, placing a pillar-between herself and their scrutiny.—News Letter.

Some Daggett Stories

Editor Goodwin of Salt Lake City has been reminiscing about the big men with whom he was associated during his earlier years on the Pacific Coast and has just delivered himself of a delightful paper on Rollin M. Daggett. This is a fruitful topic, for Daggett, as founder of the old Golden Era of this city and afterwards as co-worker with Mark Twain, J. T. Goodman and Dan DeQuille on the Territorial Enterprise of Virginia City, was an ever-bubbling fountain of wit and humor. And the personal magnetism of the man disarmed those who had every reason to feel unfriendly towards him. For instance: After the Civil War when General Sheridan was in command of the Department of the South, he sent word to Washington that the legislature of Louisiana was made up of banditti and asked permission to dissolve it. The request caused a great sensation everywhere, especially among the Democrats.

There was a Democratic editor in Virginia City whom Editor Goodwin disguises in the name of Snyder. Snyder editorialized to the effect that Sheridan's demand was sufficient to justify another rebellion. Daggett resolved to silence this inflammatory talk, so he wrote: "Mr. Snyder paid his respects to Lieutenant General Sheridan in last evening's Chronicle. It was good of him to thus remember an old companion in arms. Both were in the service. When Sheridan was planning a raid on the Shenandoah Valley, Snyder was planning a raid on a government safe. Both succeeded. Sheridan cleaned out the valley; Snyder cleaned out the safe." Goodwin told Daggett that Snyder would kill him for that editorial. "The article appeared in the next morning's paper," says Goodwin. "I saw no more of Daggett until after dinner the next evening, when he and Snyder came in, each a little mellow. They had been dining together."—Town Talk.

Muckraking a Dairy

Here is another typical Daggett yarn: Daggett and myself were quietly at work one afternoon when a man, unannounced, came in, walked straight to Daggett, and presenting a folded, Enterprise to him said: "Daggett, that is a shame. My cows are as well fed as any man's and the milk I sell is rich and sweet." Daggett took the paper, glanced at the heading, "Spill Milk," and swiftly read it over and knew that one of the reporters had been writing up the man's dairy in not very complimentary terms; then turning upon the man an indignant face, said: "You are a pretty man to come to me. I was down by your corral right before last," (he had not been there in three years) "and as I walked along the high-board fence, I heard your cows gnawing bones, and when I turned the corner they looked up at me and growled like dogs." The man dropped his head, exclaimed, "Well, yes," turned and left the office.—Town Talk.

Citing an Authority

This is also worth repeating: General Thomas H. Williams was one of Virginia City's great lawyers. He carried through successfully a difficult lawsuit, and his client gave him a small fee and 1300 old shares of Con. Virginia stock. Williams tried to sell it, but the mine was in borax then and on the stock board was rated at only a few cents a share. But after a while whispers began to be circulated that there was something in Con. Virginia, and the stock began to creep up. Then the shares were multiplied by five; but they continued to creep up; then to jump; then to soar and Williams woke up one morning to find himself worth $12,000,000. It was not long until it began to be told that General Williams was a candidate for the U. S. Senate. Hearing of this Daggett wrote and published an article, giving some data in Williams' record, calculated to depress Mr. Williams' hopes of success. The General met Daggett next morning and trembling with anger, through white lips demanded to know Daggett's authority for what he had said to him. Daggett named a not very brilliant lawyer who was a half pensioner on Williams. Williams bowed and walked out. An hour later this man whom Daggett had named burst into the editorial rooms and demanded in almost uncontrolable anger, if he had given General Williams him as authority for the infamous article he had written. Daggett turned in his chair, seemed to be thinking for an instant, and then said: "I believe I did." "What was this way?" said Daggett. "Williams came on me sudden-like, and you were the first son of a gun that came into my mind."—Town Talk.

Sad Fate of Slummers

Seldom has the local smart set received a severer shock than on Monday morning when they took up their newspapers and read of the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Warren and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker in a slum on the Barbary coast, where the four had been conducting their sociological studies. "Slumming" has been growing in favor with prosperous people for a long time, and of late has become a fad. It grew out of the old practice of "seeing Chinatown." That section of San Francisco was once like a part of Asia lifted up bodily and set down in an American city. The transplanted district retained all the picturesque and physical and moral life of the Orient. The place fascinated the tenderfoot tourist from Boston and Chicago and Indiana. They inspected the contents of the shops and purchased souvenirs of their visit, and they were lucky if they did not carry away other souvenirs from the madolored resorts of the rag-pickers and opium smokers through which they waded. One of the few blessings of the great fire of 1906 was the elimination of the slums of old Chinatown, with the wretched female slaves doomed to degradation and premature death, the rag-pickers' foul dens and the reeking opium joints where low Chinese and more degraded white men and women gave themselves up to the drug.

The sea of flame purified Chinatown, and the seekers of filth and lewdness can find it no more in the Oriental quarter. That has become a place of substantial buildings, fine shops and clean streets. Persons afflicted with moral strabismus and anxious to view bestiality and human degradation at short range must now seek to gratify their tastes in the resorts of white outcasts and criminals. The Barbary coast has therefore supplanted Chinatown in the affections of those whose curiosity outruns their sense of decorum, and prosperous people who move in what is called good society may be seen any night amongst the scum of humanity. Slumming has become almost a fashionable after-dinner recreation. It is strange evolution that those at the top of the social ladder should desire to descend in their fine clothes and mingle after dark with the poor wretches whom vice or untoward fate has placed in their odious environment. There is no pretense whatever that the leveling of social inequalities is for the moral uplift of the outcasts, for the prosperous slummers come amongst them only to see them at their worst. The wider the circles the greater the satisfaction of the visitors from the world of wealth and fashion. It is very evident that the earthquake of 1906 made more than the buildings of San Francisco tosy-turvey. The violent quake demolished the social barriers, mixed up all the sets, and deprived a considerable portion of the public of their sense of proportion. Everything has been standing on its head, figuratively speaking, since the old city hall tried to turn a somersault and other lofty buildings followed suit. Those who should be carrying hods and sweeping the streets are sitting in high places, making laws, and the leaders of fashion are trying to exchange places with the lowest of the low.

One reason of this remarkable social manifestation is that apartment house life is wiping out the traditions and destroying all the ideals of the home. Another reason is that since the earthquake and fire there has been but one idea in the minds of the public—the restoration of buildings and business. Every energy has been directed to material results. Intellectually has been discarded. Nobody has had time for it—if they had the inclination. In such conditions sensualism always becomes dominant, and gratification of sensuality leads to excesses. People who have no mental resources, or moral reserves, must have something besides French dinners and automobile rides to fill in their leisure hours. That is why the low resorts on the Ocean Beach gained such favor for a time, till they lost their novelty and were deserted for the lower association of the Barbary coast.

Another incentive to slumming in San Francisco is the desire of a certain class to imitate the antics of the so-called smart set. Even in New York, with all its metropolitan advantages, this provincial imitation of rich idlers is pronounced.

The habit of visiting Ocean Beach resorts in San Francisco received the same sort of nobility, so to speak, when Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs went out to the most notorious one in Mr. James Phelan's fine automobile, after dinner, and aided digestion by a brisk turn on the dance platform. Since then some society maids and matrons have deemed it the correct apper to display their shapely ankles as freely at public dance-halls as they would at Mr. Greenway's most exclusive cotillon. Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery. Not only has the New York leader's evening diversion at the Ocean Beach resort been copied, but improved upon. A particularly light and graceful maid, whose salubrious excellence delighted the fashionable audience at a recent charity performance at the Valencia theater, proved her mettle in a Barbary coast dive the other night. The habits of the slum forgot their interest in the turkey trot as danced by ordinary beermaids, Jacks-a-shore and sheepherders, and had eyes only for the visitor from seaward. It is said that she intends to repeat her triumph on her next visit to the underworld, properly chaperoned. For the chaperon is an indispensable factor in the success of these slumming expeditions. The maids who go bravely to their fashionable holes or homes to rub elbows with the denizens of the Barbary coast would no more think of doing so unchaperoned than wearing an Easter hat on Christmas day. In both cases their social position would be ruined irrevocably.—The Wasp.

Ancient Social History

Years ago, when some of the staid mothers of today were buds in San Francisco society, some wealthy young men and women created a tremendous sensation by visiting a Stockton street drinking resort kept by one Peter Dorsey, who catered to the patronage of the underworld. The party of fashionable revelers had attended the wedding of a wealthy man, and after leaving the mansion where the affair took place they took carriages and drove to Peter Dorsey's, where the early morning hours were devoted to wine, dancing and song. An account of the escapade crept into the newspapers, and the old-timers raised their hands in holy horror. One of the men was a gay patron of the turf, that married a very rich heiress, who divorced him and married several husbands, two of whom she buried. As far as the frisky turfman was concerned, the affair at Dorsey's astonished nobody, but it put some of the young women who participated in the escapade out of the list of social eligibles in San Francisco.

Nowadays that revel at Dorsey's would hardly excite even mild interest in smart society. Within the last few weeks some guests at the wedding of prominent San Francisco people adjourned from the marriage feast to the Barbary coast and were chaperoned by a sprightly single lady whose name often figures in the exclusive list of the Greenway set. The party of mingling round by several people who knew the men and women well, and the story of their visit to the disreputable localities has furnished a topic for all men about town. This is certainly not a very creditable state of affairs in any community, and it proves conclusively that a lot of prosperous people in San Francisco have become obsessed with the notion that to belong to the upper crust of society one must boast of an intimate knowledge of the soggy lower crust as well.—The Wasp.

Made a Night of It

One of the slumming parties which spent the other night amongst the reopened ocean beach resorts, and returned to the city in time to take breakfast at a cafe on O'Farrell street, patronized extensively by the fast set, was a well-known doctor, who is very prominent in social and club life. His society friends talk of the affair as if it were a common and every-day event, which should excite no surprise. In the better organized condition of society, no professional man, no matter what his talents, social status or wealth, could do such a thing without imperiling his reputation and probably his future.—The Wasp.

Imitating Gay Paree

No doubt some people in their innocence believe that in seeking the disreputable dance houses and baganos of the Barbary coast of San Francisco they are imitating the favorite amusements of Gay Paree. Traveled Americans know very well, however, that foreign visitors to low resorts of Paris belong chiefly to the herd of cheap tourists that think it more commendable to return to their villages in the middle west and boast that they "root" in everything that was to be seen, by gosh. They are taken in themselves, because no decent Frenchman or Frenchwoman ever thinks of visiting the disreputable places where they spend much money in Paris. If Parisians of the better class seek vice, they are more likely to look for it in glided haunts than amongst nigger shouters, sailors, longshoremen and the thieves and outcasts of the slums. Even the women of the half-world of Paris are not found in such places unless they have sunk very low. Gay Paree can be better observed in the afternoon in fine silks and feathers and automobiles on the avenue, or seen at dinner at the handsome cafes in the Bois, or the costly restaurants on the boulevards than at the Moulin Rouge or the Dead Rat. Gay Paree has no hankering for sawdust floors and the oft-cited evidence of unwashed humanity. The upper crust of society and the scum do not mix joyously after dark in Paris or any other large city in the world.—The Wasp.

Eatons Decide to Separate

The divorce suit filed by Mrs. Ethel Cooley Eaton last week against her wealthy husband, Noble H. Eaton, comes as no surprise to the friends of the couple, who have been expecting the suit for some time. Since their reconciliation following their separation about a year ago, close friends have known that their life together was not happy, and Mrs. Eaton confided to her intimate friends that a permanent separation was the only solution of the difficulty. When the Eatons separated about a year ago Mrs. Eaton went to live at the St. Francis, but after a short time became reconciled with her husband and the couple moved to a beautiful new home in San Mateo. Eaton abandoned a plan for a trip to Europe and remained in the San Mateo mansion with his wife. Differences of temperament were soon observed, and Eaton returned to San Francisco and lived a bachelor life. The technical charge on which Mrs. Eaton is asking for a separation is failure to provide. Eaton is a nephew of Fred Eaton, a well-known business man, who at one time served on the Board of Supervisors, and is now a high official of the Pacific States Telephone Company. Mrs. Eaton before her marriage, about eight years ago, was the beautiful Ethel Cooley, and was a favorite in social circles.—The Wasp.

They Thought He Was Fresh

Dr. N. H. Bullock, medical inspector of the San Jose school department, while he is able to tide over all difficulties arising in professional work, almost met his Waterloo in a little social tiff a few days ago. He had resolved to know the seven hundred high school girls who come under his tuition, at least by sight; so he began the cultivation of a little bow and smile. He soon had an opportunity to put his acquirement into use. Going downtown past one of the big department stores, he met a group of the young lady employees. The doctor had forgotten that he had seen several of them a few minutes before while doing a little trading. The young women now looked very familiar, and the doctor used his newly acquired courtesy. After the girls had passed, the doctor overheard this remark: "Wonder who that fresh old guy is?" News Letter.

Showed Them Her Heels

Margot Merriam is an unusual young lady. If she had lived in a primitive age and been given a stone axe and a log to use it on, she would probably have discovered the secret of fire through her strenuous wielding of the weapon. The stuff that she would not strike fire from, indeed, she "hit" the Rialto in Little old New York some few seasons ago, and asked to be "put on," she was "put on" forthwith. It was a leading feminine actress, too, for which she dozen experienced actresses were clamoring. But after the manner of a thoroughbred, the girl from California showed them her heels. It was before she owned a bulldog and wore a walking skirt. These things may or may not be considered an indication of how far she has progressed. At any rate, New York has come to recognize her as one of its very own. But this year, it is said, Miss Merriam will not go East. A Bohemian clubman, so the story goes, who has large lumbering and mining interests in the North, has won her heart. "Won?" Like many other things—right? Like many other things—right? But not the Rialto. Miss Merriam does the Gate Park. Miss Merriam does the rounds there frequently with her dog. The dog is somewhat of an epicure. Coming upon another of his species in the park, he decided to eat him up. Miss Merriam was in the mood to let it go at that. The Bohemian swears he even heard her say "She 'em, Checkers!" Consequently he got down from his auto and proceeded to coach him. Both dogs were too fat for much more than a roll-over, but, nevertheless, it was primitive combat to a degree. If not terrifically, the dogs at least fought with great show and breathings. It was a tussle rather than an affair of blood—something that a lady who would not go to a prize fight could watch. In the midst of it, the gentleman offered to bet on his half. With true sportsmanship Miss Merriam raised the ante. This process was repeated several times. Finally the Bohemian looked the fair Margot straight in her big brown eyes. "You're afraid to wager your heart," he suggested. "I am afraid of nothing," replied the actress. "Done!" declared the Bohemian. "And against it I chance my best mine in Alaska."

"So be it," agreed the young lady. They both signed on their dogs. The Bohemian won. And Miss Merriam was home in the big auto, where she found a chaperon and was afterwards driven to dinner.—News Letter.

The Genesis of Pastori's

One of the newspapers, in reporting the death of Pastori, the landlord of the most noted roadside resort in San Rafael, referred to the boniface as "the presiding genius" of his somewhat noted establishment. The presiding genius is really Mme. Pastori, and has been so for many years. Her history is a somewhat remarkable one, and would fit well into a corner of a French naturalistic novel. The lady was born Puerrari, and before she became Mme. Pastori had aspirations to shine upon the operatic stage. In New York, where she attained the eminence of the first rank in the chorus. When the ambitious young cantatrice came to California for musical talent that some enthusiastic friend believed that they had discovered a Mary Garden of the day. She was introduced to the John Pastoris, who were then regarded as the great patrons of native musical genius, and there was arranged a gala occasion at which the future Mme. Pastori sang a mass with slightly more fervor than dash. It is said, however that may be, the lady wasted no time upon grand opera, but devoted herself to matrimony by becoming the spouse of the man whose name has furnished a railroad station for Marin county and a roadside resort which was deemed worthy of the patronage of no less a personage than Baron Von Schroeder in his palmy days. Monsieur Pastori had gained an intimate knowledge of the moneyed aristocracy while serving as a waiter in the French restaurants of San Francisco, and he turned his experience to good account by opening a resort near San Rafael in partnership with his wife's father, Puerrari. When Mme. Pastori's mother died, Pere Puerrari committed the indiscretion of furnishing his buxom daughter with a stepmother, an impertinence which she resented by evicting him from the business copartnership, and running Pastori's herself with her husband as aid. Pere Puerrari moved across the railroad track and elected business in a small way for himself, subsisting therefrom from the overflow of his gifted daughter's prosperous house. Mme. Pastori has been the grande dame of the restaurant business of the bay counties, and nobody could look a second time without seeing that she believed implicitly what she often told her friends, that she had married below her station.—The Wasp.

Noted Attorney Near Death

The news that Ryland B. Wallace is dying will come as a shock to the score of friends of the brilliant San Francisco lawyer. Aside from being one of the leading attorneys of California, Ryland Wallace is connected with the most illustrious families of this state. He is the son of the late Judge William T. Wallace and grandson of Peter Burnett, first American Governor of California. Wallace was named after his uncle, the late C. T. Ryland, well known as a partner in the banking firm of McLaughlin & Ryland of San Jose. He is a brother of Richard Wallace, Mrs. Sheehan and Mrs. Richard Sprague, whose first husband was the late Mervyn Donahoe. Wallace married Miss Ann Bradley, eldest daughter of the late George L. Bradley, the capitalist, and Bradley L. Wallace, who was recently graduated from Harvard and is also engaged in the practice of the law, is their only child. Wallace separated from his wife some years ago. Mrs. Wallace making her home with her son in the house presented to her by her father at the time of her marriage. Wallace is a well-known member of the Bohemian Club.—The Wasp.

Goosefleshed With Fear

This is the season of the house party, and as usual the returning guests bring back a locker full of good stories, and the hosts fall into their anecdotal as the train pulls out. One abuse has been corrected with the changes and chances of the year, and in consequence one does not hear so many amusing tales of the guest who comes for a week-end and stays for a month. The sensible English custom of putting a time-limit on the duration of the visit has been adopted, and as a result, the welcome is not so apt to be worn to a shred. It is perfectly good form to ask a guest for a certain number of days, and even the guest with the quality of stick-to-itiveness is not apt to overlap into the future for a violation of the time nominated in the invitation is apt to engender the chance of a second "aid."

However, there are still loopholes through which the "herry" guest can crawl. For example, last year a man arrived, bag and baggage, at a magnificent estate on the McCloud river. He had been hidden for a week, and was counted to earn his passage by amusing the other guests. At dinner the first night it was observed that he was not in his usual form. His stories were infrequent and flat, and after dinner he excused himself and retired. At 11 the next morning he summoned the host to his bedside and announced that he had the German measles, and indeed his face looked like a highly-colored paper-mache map. "The doctor told me he thought I would break out in a day or two," moaned the invalid, "but I thought I'd get up here in the fresh air and ward it off."

Now it so happens that the host and his wife have a horror of germs, a horror that amounts to germ-mindness. Their children are all but sprayed with an antiseptic solution before setting foot in the park, and a physician makes a daily call to administer the ounce of prevention. So you can fancy what a dent German measles made in the imagination of these fond parents! They conjured up visions of their darlings with Teutonic plague, and saw themselves, and the rest of the guests likewise, spotted with Hloch den Kaiser polka dots. The children were at once established in a detached cottage under the care of their trained nurse. The guests were warned not to go near the corridor that led into the sick room. All the dishes that came from that room were sterilized, and until the arrival of the doctor from the city the host busied himself doing up his guests with medicine, taking the pulse of the assemblage, and holding fast to the thought of fear until they were all reduced to a panic over a harmless little ailment like the German measles.

By the time the doctor arrived, the common or garden variety of pulse was really above the normal. But the doctor could not waste any time on potentialities of disease. He hurried into the sick room of the quarantined patient and emerged therefrom in a few minutes with the news that the measles were nothing but mosquito bites! And for two days every one had been goosefleshed with fear! The patient had not been playing a practical joke—he had really been off his feed and had been told by a physician who was also a fellow member of the Family Club that he was coming down with German measles, and when morning came over the mountains and disclosed the ravages of the insect, the deluded man succumbed to the idea that he was the abused victim of the German member of the measles family.—News Letter.

Sit Out Dances in Taxi-cab

New York chaperones have now to cope with a new danger. It is a new fashion of "sitting out" dances and much more exciting for the participants than the old practice of seeking (usually in vain) a "goey corner" in a leafy conservatory or on the stairs. This new sitting-out device is to hire a taxicab at the door of one's hostess and to go for a spin with one's partner. At a recent affair in New York, I am informed, some couples were indiscreetly long in their absence. The first pair who thought it necessary to say the taxi broke down found the excuse acceptable; but when the same tale was brought out by the fifth couple some folk smiled.—The Wasp.

Plans of Mrs. Alexander

Mrs. Alexander and her daughter Harriet have returned from their tour abroad and are occupying apartments in one of the fashionable apartment houses in Pacific avenue. While Miss Alexander is meeting her old chums, narrating her European experiences and showing her Pommeranian pup, her mother is revolving plans which have to do with the winter campaign. Mrs. Alexander has returned to San Francisco more determined than ever to assert her social leadership, so we may look for an interesting season. She is a woman of great force of character. Is Mrs. Alexander, and is not to be deterred from prosecuting her designs by obstacles, no matter how formidable they may appear. During her tour abroad she spent a good deal of time in Paris where she had the invaluable advice of Mrs. Frank Carolan touching her social projects. She returns to the fray, therefore, reinforced at every point for a for a social battle of prime importance. Whether Mrs. Carolan gave Mrs. Alexander anything besides advice will not be known for some time. It is possible that she may have given the aspirant to the social throne a promise of help from those matrons with whom Mrs. Carolan's word is law. If that be so, there will be exciting developments. However, I am only speculating. Mrs. Alexander has not informed me of her plans. If she sees fit to do so I shall be an attentive listener.—Town Talk.

Interesting News

It is expected that Miss Marguerite Doe will make an interesting announcement to society on her return from Santa Barbara. Mr. Johnson, the fortunate suitor, is the talented and popular son of Governor Hiram Johnson.—The Wasp.

Hierarchs Will Bar Women

The Webber Lake Country Club, which has been quietly organized by twenty-five Bohemian, Pacific-Union and University clubmen, is to be sacred to the male species alone, I am told, and under no circumstances can a woman, be she fair or otherwise, enter even the grounds of the exclusive club. The twenty-five hierarchs of Webber Lake, the beautiful little spot in the Sierra Nevada mountains, are George McNear, W. O. Wayman, W. A. Bissell, R. M. Davis, Dr. Albert S. Hodgkins, Sidney Hodgkins, W. C. Neumiller, W. E. Tubbs, J. C. Wilson, E. A. Stent, C. Osgood Hooker, J. D. Grant, George H. Lent, J. A. Chanslor, E. H. Buck, Josiah R. Howell, William C. Murdoch, Edgar Painter, A. D. King, James Irvine, John D. McKee, C. J. Stovel, F. S. Moody, John R. Clark, Carter P. Pomeroy. They are all well supplied with this world's goods, and have long desired some sequestered spot where they could fish and hunt, and golf and ride, or loiter on the veranda in their pajamas if they feel so inclined. For this reason the rule forbidding the approach of a woman will be strictly enforced, and any member who attempts to show the beauties of the spot to one of the gentler sex will be promptly lynched, after which he will have to face an indignant board of directors. The membership in the organization is limited to thirty, and only those who are members of either the Bohemian, Pacific-Union or University clubs are eligible.—The Wasp.

Once More the Turkey Trot

The turkey trot is to become a dance of national fame. Word comes that the "Follies of 1911" will contain a scene in which the "Anna Held girls" will execute its entrancing measures with strict fidelity, their studies having been made right here in San Francisco. And so Broadway is to have a chance to decide whether Mary Garden had a right to be shocked, provided always that she was really and truly shocked, a thing which some of the knowing ones persist in denying. The turkey trot apparently will not down, though it is being soundly berated. It was introduced at Santa Cruz by the blithe spirits who hid them thither to celebrate the opening of Fred Swanton's big beach hotel, but the Santa Cruz editors immediately repudiated it with virtuous heat. In Sacramento the Union has swatted it unmercifully, having found tender girls dancing it at Oak Park pavilion. But here in the "Paris of America" its pagan snuistics continue to hold men and women in thrall. Even money is being wagered that it will be danced at the smart affairs this winter, but of course this is a sporting proposition and we all know that gambling is a greater evil than dancing. Even the police found on gambling while the dance goes merrily on. The popularity of the turkey trot may be inferred from the fact that the knowing Menippus who writes from San Francisco to the Stockton Mail has been trying to formulate rules for it. "To hug the lady with the peroxide hair and gold teeth as closely as possible constitutes rule one," says this pseudo-authority. "Walking backward in step then develops a peculiar sideways swaying motion which the lady never fails to perform with great gusto. Then they rub against the bar and the steam-dinger hands the fair (chemically speaking) partner a blue ticket, redeemable at two bits. Bear costs fifty cents a pint at Cowboy Bag's." Which of course is an intolerable libel on the latest eccentricity of frolicsome Terpsichore.—Town Talk.

Wails From Alameda

Since the Southern Pacific converted its Alameda steam road into an electric system there has been a great deal of sorrow among commuters who make their homes in the soporific town. It seems that the tooting of the locomotives used to serve the commuter in several useful ways. By one toot he would arise and prepare himself for the day's work and by the tooting of a later locomotive he would measure the time he had to wipe the egg off his chin, kiss his wife and run to the station. But now there are no more toots in Alameda. The locomotive disturbs no more the shumberous calm of that interesting community. The electric cars come and go and make no noise and the commuter is frequently late at the office. Many commuters are purchasing alarm clocks and preparing to keep abreast of the march of progress.—Town Talk.

It Is a Wise Young City

The convention of Bible students in town is worthy our best hospitality. But this journal would sound a timely warning. In the first place, we cannot consider Bible students, however far in their theories of life they may or may not have gone, to be other than just ordinary, earthy, susceptible individuals. Dr. McCullough, who hailed from Pittsburg, was troubled to hear Dr. Aked preach by a charming Eddy street creature, who admired his jewelry till the smitten clergyman gave it to her, piece by piece, was one of them, and rather an old one at that. We would not care to see the press black with stories of others. In San Francisco, gentlemen (courtesy compels us to address your sex alone), wherever you come from, you are up against real live life with an edge and a way to it. So wear your best leather discretion and respond not to the lure of lovely, penciled eyes, nor, impelled by the exploring spirit, wander to prohibited regions of the town. In San Francisco we are frank but you don't need to risk all of it unless such is your desire. It is one of the wisest young-old cities in a wise young-old world, so don't imagine you can teach it anything. It was through with book learning years and years ago. At any rate, it you should lose your money or jewelry in a round of moralizing on the city's bad spots, have the grit and the gumption not to holier the local atmosphere black. Be good, and if you don't be good—be careful!—News Letter.

THE MEDDLER

MRS. MILTON RICHARDSON JOHNSON, whose marriage took place last week.

MISS CRESSY STONE, a bride-elect, who is being much-feted in the bay cities. —H. Pierre Smith, Photo.

ALMOST all one's friends are away. The familiar faces are not in evidence at the theaters, and one misses them from the daily routine. But messages come from hill and dale, from mountain and ocean, and from over the seas, and they are for the most part happy messages, chronicles of good times.

When one comes to analyze "good times," especially in summer, it is quite wonderful how much, after all, must depend on our neighbors. And how sad is our lot if, by any chance our summer neighbors in the mountains or on the seashore are selfish or nervous people. Especially is the woman who worries to be avoided. It is not so much that she makes herself unhappy as that she disturbs the harmony of every one around her. At a large hotel recently there was the woman who wondered if she had turned the gas off in the range in the kitchen, having had occasion to use the range after she had sent the maids away. And there was the woman who could not remember whether she had really locked the front door or not. All those around her had to bear the burden of her worry till one was led to wish that thieves might really break through and steal.

Summer life would be fairly happy but for the children—somebody else's children. And the latter would be fairly happy if their mothers would not persist in worrying about them. These same mothers are so tired out from all the planning of little details that they need all the vacation time just to get rested, and so there is little time left for just the average enjoyment.

The summer means leisure for every one—and so it is a matter of wonder that we will persist in rushing madly, just "to get there," when "there is nothing to get there for!"

No other race except the English take so real a pleasure in movement as the Americans. We dislike to stand still; we hate to wait; the presence of an obstacle in our path that renders going back necessary, makes us ill. And of all things we like to go fast; to see things fly before us and distance everything upon the road.

A journey is entered upon in wild haste. We engage passage on an express train; we plan to avoid stopping en route, if possible. And we calculate each mile traversed as if the great object of all were to get over the ground, without seeing anything at all on the way.

And that is what the motor enthusiasts are doing just now, and while there is nothing better in the world for a vacation than an automobile, there are times when it ought to be driven slowly.

And after all, the benefit of a vacation lies in being able to leave things behind. One needs new scenes, new people, new thoughts. A recent writer says of vacation days:

"Farewell, old town, old office, old desk, old kitchen, old machines! The sane traveler rejoices to turn his back upon all of you for awhile and seek pastures new."

YOSEMITE IS MECCA FOR SOCIETY FOLK.

It is wonderful how many people are taking "Yosemite" as a matter of course, every summer. They go some where else for the more extended summer outing, but they plan a trip to Yosemite each summer. And indeed if one has made only one visit to the great Yosemite Valley one can have had only a limited acquaintance with it. In the first few days the fever of the trails finds its way in one's veins. Every one is going, so the traveler finds himself a merry member of one of the numerous parties starting out on the trails. One must go to Glacier Peak, of course, and there must be the famous trip to Wawona and the Big Trees. But the next time one goes to the great valley the trails have lost their enchantment, and one settles down under the shadow of magnificent El Capitan. One watches with varied interest the tourists come and go, from all parts of the globe they arrive, and they are from all classes in life.

In no part of the world can there be found so grand an environment as that of the great Yosemite Valley. Life lived out there is of wonderful values. The eternal strength of things is so much in evidence. The music of majestic Yosemite Falls is always in one's ears, the Merced river dashes on its way through the green pastures that lie on the floor of the valley. And the stupendous rockbound walls carry a note of strength to one's daily thoughts. And who can describe the wonderful Yosemite nights? The pines take on added height, the walls stretch up into the immitable darkness; there is a glamor, a charm, a mystery—the heart of tragedy all folded away in a magnificent Yosemite night.

Travelers come from all parts of the world to spend just a few days in Yosemite Valley. It was nature's great gift to California; it is our own, and every summer we may find here a resting place, our summer abiding-place, full of that grandeur which has justly made our great valley one of the seven wonders of the world.

It is a very easy trip from Oakland, and so it happens that some of us plan in each year's vacation time some days of real rest amid the safe shelter of the great Yosemite.

SIMPLE LIFE SIMPLY LIVED AT YOSEMITE.

Formerly Yosemite was reached by a long, tiresome camping trip, and there were many privations for those who spent much time in the valley. Now there is the most comfortable of hotels, and camp life finds its best expression there. And so it happens that many people plan to stay a month or two in the heart of the great valley.

Life is along such simple lines—for the valley itself is too great for anything but simplicity.

Simple clothes, wholesome food, wonderful air, the grandest scenery in the world, make a combination for a summer outing unequalled on the globe. It is little wonder that our people choose a Yosemite trip before all others.

Mr. Joseph Carleton is one of the busy men who several times each summer spends a few days in Yosemite Valley. The Willard Williams are going to Yosemite in July, and among those in the great valley in these June days are Captain and Mrs. Minor Goodall, Miss Helen Goodall, Mr. and Mrs. George Greenwood and Mrs. Suzette Greenwood.

Miss Irene Rutherford is spending vacation days in Yosemite Valley, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Shuey are planning to close their home in Mill Valley and spend vacation days in Yosemite.

Other visitors to Yosemite this month will be Mrs. Borland and her daughters, Mrs. Von Adelung and Mrs. Walter Hart.

RUSSIAN RIVER HAS MANY ATTRACTIONS.

On the Russian river, in Sonoma, and in Lake counties, one meets many Oakland people, to whom the change of climate and scenery bring a special appeal. At McCrays one finds Mrs. Harry Thomas and her two sons, now growing to be such big, tall boys. Mrs. W. T. Veltoch is at McCrays, and with her are two bright sons, Tom and Lloyd Veltoch. Mrs. Coogan and Miss Marjory Coogan are at McCrays, and Miss Florence Boardman, the attractive young daughter of Mrs. Blanche Boardman, is spending her vacation at that interesting old homestead in the Cloverdale hills.

Mr. Charles Hannan and his children, James and Loretta Hannan, have gone for a month to Bartlett Springs, and at Bartlett also are Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Layman and the Misses Grace and Hazel Layman.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Baring, with their daughters, the Misses Grace and Lelia Baring, are planning to spend their vacation this year at picturesque Rio Nido, on the Russian river.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Rowe, with their little daughter, Margaret Rowe, are enjoying a vacation holiday in the redwoods of Sonoma county.

METCALFE'S SPEND SUMMER AT SPRINGS.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Metcalf are at Fouts Springs in Mendocino county, where Mrs. Metcalf is rapidly recovering from her recent attack of typhoid fever.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Burnham recently motored to Fouts Springs, spending a few days there.

DAY OF ROCKING CHAIR HAS PASSED.

Summer time means, generally, the day of the porch and the rocking chair. One has visions of matrons sitting for hours in shady corners with tanywork, or with a book, the leaves of which are very seldom turned. And now the wise people tell us that is a very bad way to rest; in fact, that it is no rest at all, and lo, we see the downfall of the American rocking-chair—that chair devoted to the American matron in her summer holiday time.

For we read: "The matrons, in their ceaseless, small occupations, their continual movement of rocking back and forth, and stimulating of nerve and voice in harmless gossip, have little gain to show. They are never completely rested." And sad to say, naturally they take on fat."

Appropos of the summer porch and its rocking-chair, a clever author writes for the Fifth Avenue Book Company:

"I used to believe that rocking-chairs were indispensable comforts, particularly for a summer house. It was while living abroad that I learned to do without them. I was two years in a place where one was not to be had. And it was then that I learned to sit absolutely still—to repose every muscle. With the renouncing of useless movements, my energy of nerve increased; my vivacity was keener. I believe now, decidedly, in the pernicious effects of too much rocking-chair. Once in a while, as an indulgence, let it be used. But, in general, mother would much better buy herself a hammock to rest in out under the trees, and when sewing or reading, sit on the grass or on a low 'straight chair.' So the day of the rocking-chair is over. And there is one thing a hammock must always have in its favor—it is impossible to gossip therein!"

MAGEES AND TOBINS WRITE FROM EUROPE.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Magee and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tobin are now in Paris, having gone to France from Italy. They write the most interesting letters possible, and Mrs. Magee has a great deal of literary ability. She is one of the cleverest of the younger matrons about the bay, and an exceedingly able student. The Tobins and Magees planned an ideal trip abroad; one that was educational in many ways. While they have toured Europe in a motor car, they have not tried to rush, in a mad scramble from place to place. They have spent considerable time in the older cities, and their motor has taken them along delightful roads, many of them not down in the regular motor routes. They have seen the wonderfully picturesque life of the peasants in the various countries and have studied the historical phases of the large cities, which are European centers. They made a series of exhaustive studies in Venice and in Florence, so rich in historical lore. They spent some time in Rome, and they write of the very impressive audience they had with His Holiness, Pope Plus. They were received with a party from America, and the occasion is one they will never forget. The Magees and the Tobins decided, at the last moment, not to go to London for the coronation on account of the dense crowds, and they are now comfortably established in Paris. They expect to return to California in August or September.

MRS. S. T. ALEXANDER RETURNS FROM ISLANDS.

Mrs. S. T. Alexander returned from the Islands this week and she has opened her home on Sixteenth street. While in Honolulu she was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. John Waterhouse, whose permanent home is in that city. Mrs. Waterhouse was formerly Miss Martha Alexander, one of the attractive young girls in the smart-set of a few years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. John Waterhouse have a very attractive home in Honolulu, and they have very charming little daughters, of whom their grandmother, Mrs. Alexander, is exceedingly fond.

Dr. and Mrs. Augur have also a very attractive home in Honolulu, and the Allen home there is one of the most hospitable, and one finds there often Oakland people, since Mrs. Allen is a sister of the Edgar Bishops of this city.

MRS. C. S. TOWNE HERE FROM SOUTH.

Mrs. Charles Stark Towne and her little daughter have come up from the south and are spending some days at the Johnson home at Linda Vista.

Mrs. Towne was formerly Miss Arline Johnson, one of the very popular girls of the younger set of recent years. The Townes are making their home in the southern part of the State, near Los Angeles, and many complimentary affairs are planned for Mrs. Towne when she comes to Oakland.

MRS. F. C. HAVENS CLOSES "WILDWOOD."

Mrs. Frank C. Havens closed "Wildwood," her beautiful home at Piedmont, this week and left for the East on Thursday. The Sag Harbor home of the Havens is now opened for the summer, and there will be many guests in it during the season.

Seyd Havens and Paul Havens are planning to spend part of the summer at the Eastern family home, and among the young guests whom Mrs. Havens will entertain this season are Miss Marguerite Doe and Miss Amy Bowles. The latter is Miss Doe's guest in her Santa Barbara home.

MOUNTAINS CLAIM MRS. C. TAYLOR.

Mrs. Churchill Taylor and her sons are spending the summer in the Santa Cruz mountains, and they have as guests this week Mrs. Frederick Stolp and the latter's little daughter, Miss Carmen Stolp.

Mrs. William High is also established in her Brookdale home for the summer and Miss Helen High, the only daughter of the household, has as her guest Miss Jean Scupham.

Another very attractive home in the Santa Cruz mountains is that of the Arthur Crellins, and the young people of the family make many guests welcome there each summer. Miss Anita Crellin sailed recently for Honolulu with some young girls of her college fraternity. Miss Katherine Crellin has been entertaining friends in the Ben Lomond home of the Crellins, and among recent guests at a house party were Miss Etta Schrock, Miss Marian Rodolph, Dudley Dexter, Lloyd Gilmore and Griffith Henshaw.

BROWNS DEPART FOR SUMMER RESORT.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Brown have closed their home on Jackson street for the summer, and with their daughters, Mrs. Everts and Miss Florine Brown, have gone to Shasta Retreat.

They go there for part of each summer, enjoying the informality of this picturesque country resort. The walks are very beautiful and one has life in the high Sierras, under the very best auspices.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith are among those who prefer the mountains as the basis for a vacation outing. They are at Lake Tahoe for part of the summer. Before closing her home for the season Mrs. Smith entertained at some very delightful bridge parties in her Piedmont home.

JUDGE AND MRS. MELVIN ESTABLISHED ACROSS BAY.

Judge and Mrs. Harry Melvin are still across the bay, and are comfortably established in a very delightful apartment there. Mrs. Melvin is looking specially well, and both Judge and Mrs. Melvin were guests at the dinner given by Raphael Weil at the Bohemian Club before his departure for Paris. Among the other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Makenzie Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hamilton, Joseph Redding, Orrin Peck and Vail Bakewell.

KINSELL COTTAGE IS TAKEN BY ENGS.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Engs have taken the Dudley Kinsell cottage "Manana," at Boulder Creek, and they are spending the summer there. Mr. and Mrs. Wickham Havens motored down for the week end recently and Miss Sally Havens has been her aunt's guest at the Boulder Creek home.

WORD OF ADVICE TO WEEK-END HOSTESSES.

A word of advice might be modestly tendered to the hostess who asks you to be her guest at a week-end, or for a longer time in her country home. One would be very grateful for a hint as to what clothes to bring. It is very embarrassing to arrive at a country home when one has brought only simple clothes, and to find that everybody dresses for dinner.

On the other hand, one feels quite ridiculous if one arrives with many clothes, only to find everyone else in the simplest attire.

Mrs. Frederick Kohl has a delightful summer home on Lake Tahoe, and the Kohls have their own yacht on the lake. They entertain extensively each summer, but Mrs. Kohl has it definitely understood that for the greater part of the time only the simplest gowns are to be worn.

The same thing is true of Mrs. Charles Stetson Wheeler. Her guests must live the primitive life, if they accept her invitations to "The Bend," the country home of the Wheelers on the McCloud River. For the most part guests are expected to be present at the half after seven breakfast; the shirt waist costume is the order of the hour and no one ever thinks of so useless an experiment as evening dress for dinner. When you go to a country home it is a great comfort to know beforehand what you are expected to wear, and that hostess is thoughtful indeed who kindly tells you what clothes to bring when she sends your invitation.

DE LAVEAGAS AUTO THROUGH SOUTH.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward De Laveaga are enjoying a motor trip through the south, visiting the old missions along the way. They spent last week at the Hotel Potter in Santa Barbara. The De Laveagas leave the city very early each year and open "Benvenuto," their attractive country place near Orinda Park.

TAYLORS SPEND SOME TIME IN EAST.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrie Taylor have spent several months in New York City and have been at the Hotel Knickerbocker there. They plan to spend the summer also in the East and are going to the Atlantic seaboard. Mrs. Taylor was formerly Miss Ruth Woodbury, the youngest and very talented daughter of the Charles J. Woodbury.

STEAMER LETTERS MANY FOR MRS. C. L. SMITH.

On Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leonard Smith left for the East, and on their arrival in New York city they will sail directly for Europe. They are so very kind to their friends, so thoughtful of others, that all sorts of good wishes went with them on their way. Mrs. Smith is so very popular, so very genuine, that her steamer letters were numerous. One can imagine what interesting hours she will pass on ship board reading them all, and what loving thoughts will wing their way back to the friends who are staying at home.

Mrs. Smith is a very clever writer, and she will no doubt bring back to and a sister of Gerald Brooks, fiancé of Grace Renner of that city. Miss Brooks will make her debut in society in all probability next year.

NEW HAWLEY HOME IS ATTRACTIVE.

Among the more attractive of the large new homes in the hillside region is that of the Stuart Hawleys. It is built next to the family home of the Hawleys and represents a most attractive style of architecture. Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Hawley (Harriet Meek) recently returned from a delightful Eastern trip.

SPEND HAPPY DAYS AT "IDLEWILD."

Many Oakland people are passing delightful summer days at "Idlewild," which is near Alma, in the Santa Cruz mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Webster have spent a month there, and among the recent arrivals have been Mr. and Mrs. Dan Belden and their children. Mrs. Belden is one of the most beautiful of the younger matrons on this side of the bay and one of the most popular.

MRS. HIRAM HALL GUEST OF MOTHER.

Mrs. Hiram Hall and her dainty little daughter, Elizabeth Hall, are spending vacation days in Sonoma county, where they are the guests of Mrs. Hall's mother, Mrs. Haven, at the large ranch of the Havens near Santa Rosa.

MRS. TITUS WATCHES NEW HOME GROW.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Titus are still at the Palace and Mrs. Titus is on this side of the bay a great deal, watching the progress of the large house at Piedmont, which is to be her future home. Later in the season Mr. and Mrs. Titus will go to Lake Tahoe for pleasant vacation days.

Miss Edna Rooney, the attractive sister of Mrs. Titus, is in Honolulu, where she is the guest of Captain and Mrs. Sturgis.

NICHOLSONS ENJOY LIFE AT BREMERTON.

Paymaster and Mrs. Richworth Nicholson are established at Bremerton, the large naval station in the north, to which Paymaster Nicholson was assigned to duty. One hears that it is very gay socially in Bremerton and the Nicholsons bid fair to enjoy life there. They have with them Miss Viva Nicholson, who will be their guest this summer.

"TO GO SOMEWHERE" IS SUMMER PROBLEM.

Social happenings are, of course, wrapped up in these midsummer days in the comings and goings of one's friends. Longfellow's lines inevitably repeat themselves:

"And safe from all adversity, Thy comings and thy goings be!"

"To go somewhere"—that is the problem of the summer days—whether one goes a short distance or very far afield. It is the new things that call us—the future that beckons us. And after all, it is quite as the little girl in the story book said:

"I do like a road, because you can be always wondering what is at the end of it!"

"OLD-HOMESTEAD" TO BE GROWED.

Mr. and Mrs. David Brown are among those established for midsummer days at McCrays, and one hears of the "Old Homestead" that it bids fair to be crowded to overflowing for the Fourth of July holidays.

The Mollers have been at McCrays recently and they are making a motor trip through Sonoma and Lake counties. They have with them Miss Annie Florence Brown, the recently elected school director.

PICTURES IN THE MEDDIER.

Mrs. Milton Richardson Johnson, whose picture appears in tonight's Meddier, was before her marriage of Saturday, June 17, Miss Ethel Z. Perry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stanton Perry, a prominent family in Berkeley.

Miss Cressy Stone is a bride-to-be who is being made the motif for much entertaining on both sides of the bay where she is well known.

JORDAN DECLARES HE IS IN RIGHT

He Maintains That His Paper Award Was Within Legal Powers.

SACRAMENTO, June 24.—Secretary of State Jordan, in reply to the statements made that his order for $1800 worth of paper placed with the Zellerbachs was countermanded and that, through the orders of the Board of Control, new bids for the supply of paper must be asked for, states that he is within his rights and he intends to take the matter up with the Attorney-General.

"The State Board of Control—not me—is in the wrong," said Secretary of State Jordan. "I am right, because the law doesn't contemplate that I shall first take up the matter of giving an order for supplies with the board. I must, however, take it up afterward, and in my communication to the Zellerbach people I explicitly stated that the order was subject to the approval of the Board of Control."

When the members of the Board of Control were seen and asked what their action would be if Jordan, after receiving the bids, did not award the contract with their approval President Johnston said: "The Board of Control will insist upon each and every paper firm being given an equal chance to bid, and that the accepted bid be that which is the lowest. The Board of Control will not approve any claim for the payment of a contract for State supplies if that contract has not first met the approval of this board. If any one wants to award contracts or give orders without this sanction they may do so, but it is possible the claim will not be paid."

HEALTH OFFICERS OPEN CONVENTION

State and Territorial Authorities Visit the Quarantine Station.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—The ninth annual conference of the State and Territorial Health Authorities with the public health and marine hospital service began here today with delegates from 30 states in attendance. Surgeon General Walter Wyman of Washington, D. C., presided.

NURSERYMEN ELECT P. A. DIX PRESIDENT

SAN JOSE, June 24.—The Pacific Coast Nurserymen this morning concluded their annual convention by the election of the following officers: President, P. A. Dix, Utah; vice-presidents, C. F. Lansing, Oregon; C. H. Smith, Salt Lake City; J. Vallance, San Francisco; Ray Hartley, Idaho; A. W. McDonald, Washington; Charles Trotter, British Columbia, and D. J. Tighe, Montana; secretary-treasurer, C. F. Tompason, Washington; executive committee, M. D. Soles, Salt Lake City; A. McGill, Oregon, and Leonard Conter, Morgan Hill. In the afternoon the nurserymen were at Niles, the guests of Mr. Eberley of the California Nurseries.

HORSE SINKS TO DEATH IN ABANDONED SHAFT

OROVILLE, June 24.—While L. A. Scott was driving a herd of cattle over the mountains from Oroville, the horse that he was riding suddenly sank to its shoulders in the soft snow. Scott jumped to one side, only to see the animal completely disappear from view an instant later. An investigation showed that he had disappeared down an old mining shaft, at least 50 feet in depth. The horse was drowned.

LOWER FASTEST EXPRESS TIME

Cadillac "30" Beats Record Long Held by Other Cars.

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—Lowering the fastest time ever made by a train between here and San Diego, either way, George Adair and Bill Bramlett drove a Cadillac "Thirty" to that city yesterday morning in 3 hours and 35 minutes, beating the record, long held by the Buick, 4 minutes.

This run was over the coast route, 140 miles. They started back immediately over the inland road, 136 miles, and made it in 5 hours and 25 minutes. This was 1 hour and 15 minutes better than the previous time, held by the Great Western.

Adair and Bramlett made the round trip in the phenomenal time of 8 hours and 50 minutes, beating the Great Western's record 1 hour and 8 minutes. They won the Chandler & Lyon $500 cup, the trophy much sought by automobile men in Southern California.

POSSUM LIVES 9 YEARS IN CITY

Animal Discovered in Heart of Washington When Building Is Razed.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—A live possum was the remarkable find made in the very heart of this city yesterday by negro workmen engaged in tearing down the old Rizer House, just across the street from the treasury building. In the cellar a squad of negroes happened upon what they took to be a rat of terrifying proportions. The sight was too much for their nerves and they made for the street. When a policeman had discovered the true character of the animal, it is said that there was as wild a scramble of negroes for the cellar as that which they had made in getting out.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC WINS FIGHT FOR WATERFRONT

SACRAMENTO, June 24.—The city has lost its dispute with the Southern Pacific regarding the use of the water front. Some time ago the city granted permission to a boat club to use the water front for its boat house and moorings. The Southern Pacific forestalled this by placing pilings in the river.

MISSOURI ASTRONOMER TO TEACH AT U. OF C.

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 24.—Professor Eli S. Haynes of the astronomy department of the University of Missouri has resigned and accepted a similar position with the University of California at Berkeley, where he will take up his duties this fall. Professor Haynes left yesterday morning to arrange his affairs at Berkeley.

CLAREMONT CLUB.

The Claremont Country Club's garden party on July 4 is, as usual, to be a feature of the club's holiday entertainment. An open air concert will be held and dozens of smartly-gowned folk will spend the day on the grounds, which will be dotted with Japanese umbrellas for protection from the sun. A series of tournaments will be held, including the popular shooting contests, while the golf links will claim their usual devotees as well as tennis, bowling and archery. Numerous small luncheons and dinner parties will be held by the club members. The Fourth of July ball and the display of fireworks, together with a midnight supper, will conclude the evening's pleasures.

DEPARTS FOR OUTING.

Mrs. William Lawrence Jones has left for her summer place on the Sacramento river and will divide the season between her summer home and her Berkeley residence. She will entertain at several house parties.

MISS HENDY BECOMES BRIDE.

Miss Ethel Hendy became the bride of Roscoe Knowles Cross this afternoon at a quiet wedding at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. L. J. Hendy in Berkeley.

The bride's father, Mr. John G. Hendy, a prominent banker and real estate dealer, was in the presence or only the immediate relatives.

The bride's father, Mr. John G. Hendy, a prominent banker and real estate dealer, was in the presence or only the immediate relatives.

RETURNS HOME.

Mrs. Edward Finkelsdyer has returned from the wedding of a former Oakland belle, Miss Anna Mae Willard, to James Catlin Arnott of Palo Alto. The ceremony took place in Palo Alto.

VISITOR DEPARTS.

Mrs. Martin J. Colmann, who since the death of her husband has made Los Angeles her home, is visiting in San Francisco, after having spent a month with friends in this city.

WEDDING IN ALAMEDA.

A pretty wedding took place when Miss Olga Hessmeyer and George Makins were married at the home of the bride's parents, 2201 San Antonio avenue, Alameda. The large parlors were beautifully decorated with an abundance of flowers, ferns and palms. The young couple took their places under a huge wedding bell suspended in the bay window. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Foley. Miss Helen Hessmeyer acted as bridesmaid, and H. M. Myhre as the groom's attendant. After the ceremony a dainty supper was served.

MANY-TIMES HERO IS GIVEN LIGHT SENTENCE

NEW YORK, June 24.—A hard luck story, written by a man who had fallen on evil days, impressed County Judge Fawcett of Brooklyn so forcibly that he sentenced the author, Jacob Svoboda, to only four years in prison, though he might have got twenty. The man was arraigned yesterday for sentence following his conviction for two burglaries committed six years ago, one the panning out of $1500 and the other of $2000.

The story that Svoboda laid before Judge Fawcett was fortified by official papers, newspaper clippings and other evidence. It is said that in 1895, when he belonged to the United States Life-saving Service of San Francisco, he saved Lillian Stanford from being drowned, and was presented with a gold watch studded with diamonds by her father. Five years later he rescued a woman and child from a fire in Chicago, and was burned himself in making the rescue. He also was honorably discharged from service in the United States Army.

and Mr. and Mrs. Makins departed on their honeymoon, an extended Eastern trip.

Mrs. Makins is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Hessmeyer. Makins is a prominent business man of San Francisco. Upon their return they will reside in a bungalow on Van Buren street, where they will be at home to their friends after August.

AT BROOKDALE.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, who are spending a few weeks at Brookdale, are expected home at the end of the week.

WEDDING OF INTEREST.

The wedding of Miss Elsie O'Donnell and John J. Budd of Troy, N. Y., will take place Friday at Sacred Heart church, following which there will be a reception at the bride's home, 2310 Folsom street, San Francisco. Joseph Burke, a prominent landlord and capitalist of Tipperary, Ireland, will be best man. Miss Rachel Lemon of Oakland will be bride's attendant. The bride-to-be is a graduate of St. Mary's College, where he was known as a clever athlete. He is also a member of the Kalol Club of Oakland. The honeymoon will be spent in Ireland, after which the young couple will reside in Piedmont.

YALE LOSES REQUEST FOR NEGRO EDUCATION

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 24.—By a decision of the probate court here, Yale loses a request of $50,000 left by the Rev. Amos G. Beaman for the education of colored students who planned to become Congregational ministers. The Rev. Mr. Beaman, who died in 1874, left his estate to his children and provided that should they die without offspring the property would go to Yale. The only offspring was a child which died in infancy. The estate, however, will go to a distant relative of the infant, Charles Beaman Hancock of Chicago.

NEW EGG EXCHANGE FORMS A CORPORATION

SANTA ROSA, June 24.—Articles of incorporation of the Santa Rosa Poultry Association and Egg Exchange have been filed. The incorporators are: John J. Fitzgerald, Andrew Donald, H. Wright, Max Fischer and W. E. Pitsch. The association will deal directly with the poultrymen and in this way it is expected prices will be better.

COAL LANDS IN DANGER

SEATTLE, June 24.—The forty claimants of the Stracey coal land group in Alaska have been notified by the Juneau land office to show cause within thirty days why the claims should not be recommended to the commissioner of the general land office for cancellation. A special agent of the general land office has filed charges against the validity of the claims.

SHOOT WOMEN AFFINITIES. ADVISES THIS POLICE CHIEF

Fresno Man Would Kill Off Wreckers of Homes

Lady Decies Again Ill Following Strain of Coronation

FRESNO, June 24.—Chief of Police Shaw of this city has caused considerable of a sensation by declaring that injured wives should carry a revolver and shoot those who wreck their homes.

His comment was caused by public criticism of the release of Mrs. Fred Shaw, who might be last shot a woman whom she found in the park with her husband.

Mrs. Shaw was released from jail by Police Judge Briggs on her own recognizance, no complaint having been sworn to against her. It is understood that the shooting was done, will swear out a warrant against her tomorrow morning.

"If the women of Fresno whose homes have been broken up would take the same radical action as that of Mrs. Fred Shaw in taking the law into her own hands, there would be an abatement of this sort of crime in the city of Fresno," said the chief this afternoon.

He added that the present laws to prevent the violation of marriage vows are altogether too lax and imposed on the injured person with no real recourse.

Mrs. Addie, who was shot by Mrs. Shaw, was but slightly wounded and is already about again.

Drugged Bride Freed

PORTLAND, Ore., June 24.—Declaring she was induced to consent to her marriage with Thomas Brickley when under the influence of drugged wine, and that she repudiated it as soon as her faculties became normal, Gladys Arkansas Brickley was granted an annulment of the marriage yesterday by Circuit Judge Gantenbein. The young woman told the judge she had lived with the family of Alfred Ankon in November, 1910, and that there she met Brickley, a boarder in the house, who made violent love to her from the day of their meeting. The marriage took place November 12. Mrs. Brickley declares she knew nothing of the ceremony, which occurred in the evening. She remembers drinking a glass of wine and later, when her senses returned, she was informed that the marriage ceremony had been performed. She left the house the same evening, and has not seen her husband since. Rev. Jacob Snyder, who performed the ceremony, said she had been in the car for at least ten days without food or water, the hospital authorities say.

Locked in Car

TRUCKEE, June 24.—A woman whose identity the authorities have been unable to ascertain was found locked in a box car a mile north of Boca by John Margasill, section foreman, who stopped the afternoon motor car and had her brought to this city. The woman was raving and has been unable to tell anything about herself, except to mutter something about her husband having lost his life in the San Francisco fire.

The unfortunate person had a ticket in her possession reading from Lodi, Utah, to Montecello, Nev., and dated June 12. It is probably that she had been in the car for at least ten days without food or water, the hospital authorities say.

How the woman came to be in the car is a mystery. She is apparently 55 years old, 5 feet 11 inch tall, dark complexion, gray hair and she wears glasses. She is detained at the county hospital.

Fortune in Danger

OROVILLE, June 24.—Less than a week after Charles A. Meng was awarded the fortune left by his father, amounting to more than $17,000, for having abandoned his reckless and dissolute habits and having become a useful member of society, he was arrested yesterday upon a charge of having plied two girls of Oroville, both under 18 years old, with liquor.

Meng's arrest followed that of Ethel Sykes and Grace Houghton, who were found in the streets of Chico after an all night carousal. In court they made a confession.

Meng obtained his inheritance upon a statement signed by the principal businessmen in Chico certifying to the thorough character of his reform. If he is found guilty it is predicted that the court will rule that it was imposed upon and deceived and Meng lose his fortune.

Hetty Green to Sell

CHICAGO, June 24.—Reports are current that Mrs. Hetty Green, who owns between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 worth of Chicago real estate has placed all of it under option for sale. The reports were started by recent acquisition by Cobe & McKinnon of the Gage Park tract, purchased by them for $750,000, which will be subdivided and placed on the market.

It has been known for some time that Mrs. Green has been on the point of relinquishing her Chicago holdings, but has not done so because of the fact that she considered herself unjustly treated years ago in the sale of a tract in Cicero, which she repudiated, but which she was compelled to stand by on account of a supreme court decision.

Lady Decies Ill

LONDON, June 24.—Lady Decies, formerly Vivien Gould, is ill and in bed as the result of the coronation. Only a few weeks ago an operation for appendicitis was performed upon her. She remained in Westminster Abbey throughout the ceremony, but the long wait proved too much for her enfeebled health. Physicians were in attendance all of yesterday.

Will Wed Emerson

NEW YORK, June 24.—Captain Isaac E. Emerson, a patent medicine manufacturer of Baltimore, whose wife obtained a divorce from him a month ago, and a settlement of $25,000 annual alimony, is expected by his friends to be married in Yonkers on Wednesday next to Mrs. Anna Preston McCormack. She and her two children are the guests of LADY DECIES, who is again ill as result of coronation strain.

WOMAN OF MYSTERY AND AGED ADMIRER IN TRAP

Mrs. John W. Jenkins' Jewels, Given to Her by Wooer, to Be Seized by Officials

NEW YORK, June 24.—The magnificent jewels of Mrs. John W. Jenkins, which have been the subject of much romance and mystery, are now involved in a matter of far graver concern, not only for their owner, but for a very wealthy and aged admirer of Mrs. Jenkins, who lives in the West and who is said to have given her the collection of gems to the value of upwards of $300,000.

Mrs. Jenkins' jewelry and Mrs. Jenkins herself first came into prominence in New York in December, 1909, when the announcement was made that her apartments at the fashionable Hotel Lorraine in Fifth avenue had been robbed of jewels valued at $300,000.

There was a mystery about the robbery that has never been solved and the police in their attempt to solve the mystery also learned that there was a mystery about Mrs. John W. Jenkins, with a touch of romance that made the case stranger than a tale from the Arabian Nights.

MADE NO REPORT TO POLICE

Mrs. Jenkins did not report her loss to the police. She put a private detective agency to work and offered a $10,000 reward for the return of the jewels. The police insisted upon investigating, but after a few days dropped the case, determining there had been no robbery.

But another bureau of authority was also interested by the announcement of the loss of the jewels, and with a tenacity characteristic of the service, has been working ever since to solve the mystery.

The solution that this bureau has reached is that Mrs. John W. Jenkins did own jewels to the value named, that they were a present from the aged millionaire who lives in the West and that to please the pretty and vivacious Mrs. Jenkins while they were on a trip abroad together he purchased the costly baubles and then smuggled them into this country.

CUSTOMS OFFICIALS

This bureau was the United States Government customs officers and its special agent, who has been so persistent

Captain Emerson, with her brother, who is manager of the New York branch of Emerson's company, on the auxiliary brig Margaret, now anchored in the North river.

Takes Bride in London

MOBELIX, Mo., June 24.—At the apartments of John Hays Hammond in London today, Mrs. Will A. Rothwell, widow of the former Democratic national committeeman from this state, and Robert J. Kerr, a wealthy mine and oil operator of San Francisco, were married.

The groom is a close friend of Hammond, who is in England as the representative of the United States at the coronation of King George. The couple will make a motor car tour through England and parts of the Continent.

SOME THINGS WOMEN ARE DOING

CHRISTIANA.—The head of the church council has refused permission for the Rev. Anna Shaw to preach in the church here. The question of women in the clergy has for some time agitated Norway and has caused disunion.

The bishops oppose the aspirations of women for holy orders. The supporters of the Rev. Anna Shaw would be able to break down the opposition here, but they have been disappointed.

SAVES $9200 ON $1 A DAY.

WORCESTER, Mass.—Relatives of Miss Marquette Hudson, who died after working as a shop clerk for seventeen years at $1 a day, found bank deposits in her name aggregating $9200. Her total earnings had been about $300, and from this she had paid her living expenses for the whole seventeen years and the cost of the funeral of her brother, who died three years ago.

Miss Hudson is believed to have lived on 80 cents worth of food each week.

BRIDE'S WILD NIGHT RIDE.

MALLISTER, Okla.—Mrs. Sallie Trippett, a bride of 18 years, supposed to have been drowned when her mother, Mrs. George Glover, and two other children perished in a flood which overturned their wagon in the Canadian river, has been rescued in Gaines Creek. She grasped a log when thrown from the wagon, and clung to it all night, while her husband carried fifteen miles down the Canadian river and up a creek.

Workmen on a railroad bridge saw her predicament and threw her a rope, which she caught. The men in their excitement, however, threw both ends of the rope, and clinging to the log as it rolled over and over through a new winding channel, she was carried up Gaines creek.

Three miles up the creek a farmer saw her clinging to the log and rescued her. Her left hand was mangled in her all night ride, and her body was bruised all over, but she will recover.

ANIMAL FLEES HOBBLE SKIRT.

BOSTON, Mass.—There is under way in Waltham today a movement to protect defenseless animals from the hobble-skirt. A perfectly harmless deer was grazing in the outskirts of the town yesterday when a (hobbled) deer approached.

The animal became panic stricken and dashed through the town, creating consternation among the wayfarers and leaving a trail of damage. It finally came to grief in a hothouse, caused $200 damage, and died from the cuts it received when it crashed through the glass walls.

STOCKINGS? Who Stole 'Em? Barefoot Girls Yell for Police

NEW YORK.—If the dozen young women guests of a popular summer resort at Pine Brook, lay hands on the man who stole their shoes and stockings this morning when they were in swimming, New Jersey's meanest thief will yell for the police to save him. The girls would like to have him sentenced to life imprisonment. Think of having to tramp barefooted and barelegged over a quarter-mile of stubble.

Guests of the resort bathe in the Passaic river, and to get to the bathhouses have to wade through water ankle deep, so they take off their shoes and stockings before stepping from the shore. This morning twelve young women went to the river before breakfast to take a dip, and left their shoes and stockings behind a fence. A half hour afterward cries of distress brought other hotel guests.

Miss Katie Bernstein, the first to dress, went to the spot where she had left her shoes. A pair was in sight, nor a stocking either. Shripping she shouted the alarm and the other girls splashed to her.

LILLIAN, WHERE ART THOU? RENO SEEKS ITS FAVORITE

RENO, Nev.—Where is pretty Mrs. Lillian Wiggins, wife of Benjamin Platt Wiggins, head of a New York taxicab concern? This is the theme of gossip among the divorce colony here.

Mrs. Wiggins came to Reno to establish residence, preliminary to commencing action for divorce. She found time to make frequent trips to San Francisco, but nevertheless filed her papers—sealed—only carefully and de rigor. This was on February 6, last.

The same evening Mrs. Wiggins departed—ostensibly for San Francisco, and this is the last Reno has seen of her. She has been reported as having been seen in the exposition city, in Los Angeles, even in far-away New York, where Mr. Wiggins is presumably dragging out a lonely existence. But, then, one can hardly suppose that she took a trip to New York just to see him.

It was Mrs. Wiggins who plucked the depths of sensation in Reno by appearing before the footlights in an amateur performance, decked in tight-fitting, cream-colored tights at which the entire colony turned out to see her. The house was as elaborately dressed in any Broadway theater on a first night.

Mrs. Wiggins appeared as one of the ponies drawing a Roman chariot. She was a real pony, for she pranced about in her cream-colored tights and bobbed her head and smiled and waved her hand to friends in the audience.

That fair Mrs. Wiggins was showered with attentions in San Francisco may be inferred from the fact that during her few hours' stay in Reno on the day the divorce papers were filed, she displayed a wealth of diamonds which she stated some admirer had given her.

The divorce action is still on file. But where is Mrs. Wiggins? She may be in New York—and then, again, she may not.

NEW YORK.—Four months ago Miss Julia McMahon, an orphan, was selling candy in the Loft Shop at No. 54 Barclay street. Today she is Mrs. George W. Loft, wife of the millionaire candy manufacturer and Tammany sachem. They are at Lake Placid, N. Y., on their honeymoon.

Upon their return they will be at the Loft summer home at Baldwin, L. I., a show place.

The wedding, which took place at St. Killian's Catholic Church, Farmingdale, L. I., came as a surprise to all except the most intimate friends of the pair.

HOW TO CHOOSE HUSBAND

NEW YORK.—How should one choose a husband? How may one keep a husband?

These questions, propounded to a charming and still young woman who is now asking legal separation from her fifth "helpmate," should be of interest to every young woman contemplating matrimony.

Mrs. Margaret E. Fausser, heroine of five marriages, answered these questions yesterday when they were asked by a reporter.

She was married nineteen years ago at the age of sixteen, so she is thirty-five years of age, but she might easily pass for five years less, in spite of the eighteen-year-old daughter who lives with her.

"I have been married five times," admitted Mrs. Fausser. "I have divorced three husbands, been divorced from the fourth and am seeking separation from the fifth; but if you ask me, 'matrimony a failure?' I would say, 'No.'"

"There is nothing in life to live alone. To sit down by one's self at the dinner table is worse than death. A woman needs a husband and children. I have had a husband and children, but I have had no happiness in my life, but I have had experiences with husbands that would discourage me if I were not sure that there is real happiness in the world, if one can only find it.

"I do not hate my present husband. I believe that he is the victim of an environment."

"I warn girls against poor sons of rich men and against good-looking suitors. I had four of them and was not happy. I hoped to be happier with the last, who could not claim to be handsome and whose business was not big until I began to help him. I am not trying to get a divorce from Mr. Fausser. I only want him to support me, as he promised to do when I married him, and as I believe he would have done if he had not been led away by false friends."

"The attractive woman has little chance for happiness. The woman who is not attractive is more likely to escape suspicion on the part of her husband. He won't worry about her, and will feel sure that when he returns home at night he will find her there. The poor are sure of happiness more than the rich. They have less to distract them from home."

"Don't marry a man who employs women in his office. My husband had it. He is a sure of happiness more than the rich. They have less to distract them from home."

After that my trouble began. I do not mean that I am jealous—but it is distracting.

"I have had five husbands and now I have none—but I declare that all my life I have tried to be a good wife and no one has charged me with anything unbecoming."

"I believe that it is a wife's duty to dress as well in the home as she would in the street or the theater; to try to make her husband forget his business cares when he is home; to be waiting for him cheerfully."

"Rich and handsome men have too many interests in life besides their wives."

Married life seems too good to be true. It is like living on air. It is scarcely human—but as my last husband, Mr. Fausser, used to say, 'you can't eat cake all the time.'

A wife ought to get her full share of her husband's money. That will keep other women from getting any."

"I do not mean by this that 'other women' were the cause of all my matrimonial troubles. As a matter of fact, I had a different cause of complaint against every one of them—apart from the fact that I did my best to be a good and true wife in every case."

"I cannot say that I was in love with all of my husbands, but I was true to them all."

Picks All Husbands From Yale

NEW HAVEN.—Mrs. Katherine Sanford Thorne Sheffield of New Haven and New London, who has already had two husbands from the graduates of the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale University, is about to wed a third Sheffield man. According to report Mrs. Sheffield will be married in Paris to George Marcellus Lander, a New Britain manufacturer. Both sailed for Europe a few days ago.

Mrs. Sheffield got her divorce only last Monday from George Sheffield, a New York banker, of the family which founded the Sheffield School.

Mrs. Sheffield is the daughter of the late Prof. Samuel S. Sanford, one of the founders and professors of the Yale School of Music. At his death two years ago his daughter came into $4,000,000 of his $7,000,000 estate. As Kitty Sanford she was courted by Robert Peck, an Englishman, and the great-grandson of the English statesman, Sir Robert Peel. Her grandfather, Henry Sanford, president and one of the originators of the Adams Express Company, objected so strenuously to the match that the young Englishman was forced to return to his father.

HER FIRST MARRIAGE.

In June, 1896, Miss Sanford was married to Victor Thorne, Sheffield '94. The best man was Thorne's classmate, George Sheffield. Thorne is a brother of Brinckerhoff Thorne, who was the Yale football captain at the time of his brother's marriage. The wedding, which took place at the Bridgeport home of Miss Sanford's father, was attended by the Goulds, the De Peysters, the Hewitts and many persons prominent in society.

Two years after the wedding Thorne divorced her. In March, 1899, Mrs. Thorne and Sheffield, Thorne's best man, went to Media, Pa., and were married. Not long after that they bought a large estate in New London, where Yale crews had been entertained, and entered Connecticut country society. The winters they spent in Prof. Sanford's home in New Haven. They were supposed to be very happy until four years ago when rumors came that they were about to separate. Then their little daughter, Katherine Cecil Sheffield, was dragged at the heels of her pony and killed.

After the death of the little girl Sheffield spent much of his time in New York, where he was a member of the Stock Exchange house of Sheffield & McCullough. Early in May Mrs. Sheffield sued for a divorce in the Superior Court in Norwich. She got her decree and the custody of their two children.

George M. Lander, who report says is to become Mrs. Sheffield's third husband, has been twice mayor of New Britain. His first election was years ago. Two years later he was traveling in Europe when his party gave him a second nomination and he was elected by a large majority. After his second term he retired from politics. He also is a graduate "Shert" class of 1891.

LOS ANGELES COUPLE MARRY IN MOONLIGHT

LOS ANGELES.—As night settled over Two Trees Hill, making the place more lonely than ever, a couple stood on the very pinnacle and were married. They were Miss Eva H. Hunter, a school teacher, and Bay-

It was on the identical spot that they were betrothed two years ago to the hour.

Uninviting as the place is at night, the wedding was far from simple. Miss Hunter was garbed in a splendid wedding creation, the bridegroom was clad in evening dress, and the guests in evening clothes. So steep is the hill that the clergyman found himself out of breath when he reached the summit, and the wedding ceremony was halted until he could speak.

ATHLETES OF CITY PLAN SERIES OF EVENTS

TRAIN FOR AUTUMN ATHLETIC SEASON

LOUISE RYDER, one of the athletes of the Manual Training and Commercial High School.

Many of the graceful young athletes of the Manual Training and Commercial high school are practicing the various games which will be revived in this institution this fall. Miss Jeanette Selfridge, who was interested in basketball and tennis last year, promises to be an enthusiastic leader next term.

Miss Louise Ryder, who graduated last year from the commercial course, was one of the organizers of the tennis team in that school. For a short interval tennis was the craze in the school, but it was replaced by basketball.

The playground directors assert that tennis and croquet will be the leading games this year in the schools of this city.

DE FREMERY PLAYGROUND.

Flag raising. Song—"Star Spangled Banner."
Reading of Declaration of Independence.
Military drill—Senior girls.
"Antoinette—Junior girls.

Cup race—Junior girls.
Three-legged race—Senior girls.
Skipping race.
Volleyball.
Curtain-lift.

The boys of the Young Men's Christian association are planning a number of athletic entertainments prior to the close of the summer vacation. No dates have been set for the affairs, but it is believed that the initial event of the series will commence next week. The athletes are training in the gymnasium for the various stunts, which will be given under the direction of Physical Culture Instructor Martin.

Arrangements are progressing for the organization of the Hikers' club, which will probably have an enrollment of fifty members. The club is planning to enjoy long tramps over the hills and mountains of California.

Wife Extravagant HE SAYS ON $25 a Year

ELL, Nev.—Mrs. Mary Lyman, wife of John Lyman, living on the Hay flats in the southern part of Cherry county, has been brought into court to answer the cross petition of her husband for divorce, alleging cruelty, and now John, in his cross petition, alleges that he is the one to whom the decree should be granted.

The Lyman are among the oldest settlers of the county, and have become rich raising cattle. Since becoming wealthy, Mrs. Lyman has plied for good clothes. In her petition for divorce, Mrs. Lyman alleges that her husband is of uncouth turn of mind, and is not inclined to be neat in his personal appearance. To be specific, she says he changes his clothes but twice a year—once in the spring and again in the fall. These changes are made in the spring when he sheds his winter underwear, and in the fall, when he dons heavyweight garments. In all their married life of fifteen years, Mrs. Lyman says, her husband has taken but one bath, and that was when he slipped and fell in the Niobrara river.

In his cross petition, Lyman charges that his wife has made fun of him when out in company, and has taught their children to call him names, such as "the two-legged hog," "the dirty, dog and the old rooster." He also charges that during the last five years his wife has annually spent $25 for her personal adornment, while his own wardrobe during the period named has cost but $14, adding, "and that has been good enough for any man."

ORDERED TO KISS WIFE DAILY.

ATLANTA, Ga.—Because he refused to give her an occasional kiss for which she longed, Mrs. T. K. White had her husband arrested for mistreatment. Judge Orr instructed the husband to give her at least one kiss a day, while a few thrown in for good measure would not be out of the way. Then he dismissed the case.

OAKS PLAY GREAT BALL AND EASILY BEAT BEAVERS

Christian Hurls Like a Big Leaguer and His Team Mates Play Like Champions

By BERT LOWRY.

Portland Cham-peens! Cham-peens, nothin'! Sure they're a great aggregation of ball players, every one of 'em, but—that's it—but. Here they came into our fair section of the grand old U. S. A. heralded as world-beaters extraordinary and the Anti-Oakland fans adopted the slogan, "Poor Old Oakland," and kept us awake of night telling us how these Cham-peens were going to nail our boys to the mast and dance the ring 'round the rosy around us. Well, "Bud" Pernoll lost the opener and joy ran rampant in the ranks of the Antis and loudly did they cry, "Poor Old Oakland."

"Sing, me lad, sing," spake Skipper Wolverton of the fighting crew of the good ship Oakland, "for me decks are cleared for action and a merry battle shall I give those Beavers with my fighting crew."

They came the first gun from the fleet of Wolverton.

FLATER HELPS START THE SCRAP.

It was a Wednesday afternoon, with Gunner Flater at the firing line. That game is in history's pages now.

On Thursday Commodore Harry Ables fed the Beavers shot and shell and sent them scurrying to Fort Mac for reinforcements.

Yesterday Admiral Harry Wolverton sent Captain Tyler Christian to the gunners' deck with instructions to shoot the enemy full of holes.

Tyler is a nice, obliging young man and told his admiral that he would be the boy to rouse the enemy.

"Of course, I'll need a little help," spake the Texan. "Righto" sang the admiral and for the third time in a row the hopes and pride of Oakland played shuttlecock with the braves of Sir Walter Blitch-um-up McCreedy.

And what a fine game of ball it was. Tyler hurled like a major leaguer and glommed a good clean single to center that scored a run. Behind him eight men played ball all the time and those men did gather a single gathered it just when it was most welcome and useful.

MODEST MR. ZACHER THE HEAD-LINER.

Mr. Henkel, late of Seattle, was the runner for McCreedy and did nicely sometimes. Maybe if he'd have pitched elsewhere he would have won, but a very modest young man named Elmer Zacher did much to take the wind from out of his sails.

Up to the fourth inning Henkel was getting away with it in good style, but here he flattered.

Margart, first up, walked to first. Cutshaw bunted and Earl was at second.

The "kiddie" who fills the field bleachers by the kindness of J. Cal Field, were beseeching Elmer to hit the ball out to them AND HE DID.

Henkel has a sardonic grin and used it till modest Mr. Zacher swung. Then he lost it. On a base-line went that pellet, right up among the crowd of "kiddies."

"Geel!" said one, "what a swipe," and it was.

Easily and jauntily jogged Margart ahead of Zacher to the rubber. But Zacher! Mercy, when he saw that ball go into the crowd he hung his head and blushed all the way round to the plate and when the applause died down and he walked to the bench he blushed some more.

All Oakland was proud of Mr. Zacher last night and all Oakland is proud of Mr. Zacher today. And this goes for Mr. Harry Wolverton and the balance of the boys who are gallantly fighting to bring the bunting to Oakland.

ANOTHER FOR OAKLAND IN THE SEVENTH INNING.

There were troubles aplenty for Mr. Henkel or Hinkle in the seventh and the sterling "cap," and the sterling boxman of the Oaks, aided by the shortstop and catcher, glommed a tally. Wolverton it was that opened the round with a slam against the fence for a single. Wares bunted and Cap took second. Mitz's out him at third and he scored on a liner to center off Christian.

In the eighth Hoffman tallied for the last run of the day for the Oaks. Having failed to land safely at first the first three times up, he did get his in the eighth, a liner to right. Margart hit back of second and Hoffman reached second. A pretty bunt placed both men up a bag and when Koestner cut loose with a wild pitch Hoffman lingered.

In their half of the eighth inning Portland couched a shutout. Peckinpaugh hit sharply to Wares and Clyde got nervous. By heaving the ball high over Pyl's head he gave the Beaver second. Murray's out put him at second and when

AMERICAN LEAGUE PATRONS LOOK FOR CHANGE

ST. LOUIS, June 24.—Baseball fans of St. Louis are wondering how much truth there is in the rumor that the Detroit team is shortly to be sent to St. Louis to represent this city in the American League.

It is said that if the deal goes through the American League will try to get a team in either Cincinnati or Pittsburgh.

If neither of these cities can be reached for an American League berth, then it is said that Toledo will be taken in. Detroit will be given a berth in the American Association.

San Johnson and his associates argue something must be done to help St. Louis. Unless something is done for the Browns at once the American League will have in St. Louis one of the biggest graveyards in the history of the game outside of the Boston Nationals.

McCredie, batting for Henkel or Hinkle, hit to Cutshaw and was out the base-

EVERY ONE A CHUMP.

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—Hap Hogan tried his bumper, Glpe, against the Seals and lost, 8 to 4, principally because the visitors bunched a lot of hits in the fourth inning. After the bumper he stuck it out for six innings, he quit and Hogan put in his new flinger, Stanfield, who heaved hitless ball in the eighth and ninth rounds. Henley was rapped, ran, and often, but he was good enough or lucky enough to be strong in the pinches and pitched his best, as he always does, when he was in the hole.

BALL FIELD GOSSIP AND NOTES OF THE GAME

The sporting editor is in receipt of a letter simply signed A. E. F., asking that his opinion of the Oakland ball team be published in these columns.

This class of people, who are too cowardly and are not manly enough to sign their names are beneath notice and the proper place for their communications are in the waste basket, to which regions the anonymous communication of A. E. F. is consigned.

Oakland played some more of that real championship baseball yesterday and simply outclassed the Beavers in every department of the game. All true fans who have the success of the team at heart and are for baseball first, last and all the time, will lay aside the little malice and begin to root and boost for Manager Wolverton and his men, who are at least trying to give them the best they can.

Suppose one of us, or three of the lads go off and tap, or nip. Is that any reason why the letter writer who is ashamed to sign his name should out loose with a lot of cheap advice.

Tyler Christian is getting better all the time and his work yesterday was all that could be desired. Up to that ninth inning he was invincible and but for that chap of Wares would have scored a shutout.

In the ninth he wobbled just a wee bit, allowing two hits and poking one man in the ribs. Krueger, though, hit a dinky fly to Cutshaw. Sheehan hit likewise to Wolverton and Peckinpaugh went out to Cutshaw.

About Hinkle or Henkel, we know not what is correct. He is a nice looking chap that likes to pose for the ladies but after that he failed to show anything that would set the world afire. Of course, the "kiddie" who fills the field bleachers by the kindness of J. Cal Field, is in the history of the game outside of the Boston Nationals.

In the fourth inning Zacher drove the ball on a line into the left field bleachers for a home run, scoring Margart ahead of him. It was one of the longest hits ever registered on the grounds and showed the ability of the Oaks fielder as a hitter.

In the sixth inning Zacher again hit the ball on the nose and Grueger just did get it back against the fence in left.

A fan asked, "Is Zacher a better hitter than Ping Bodie?" To the mind of the writer, Zacher is a far superior hitter than Bodie was or ever will be for the one reason that he is reliable, something that could not be said about Ping with all his powers.

Pyl played first in grand style and three times made assists on drives that looked impossible to get. Christian, of course, helped by getting over the diamond in first time to get the throws to first base.

Cutshaw took care of ten chances at second base with elegance and grace.

McLOUGHLIN SHOWS CLASS AS WIELDER OF TENNIS BAT

SANTA CRUZ, June 24.—Maurice McLoughlin of San Francisco put up one of the best games of his career on the courts here yesterday when he defeated Charles Foley in the final round of the all-comers' tournament in progress at the Hotel Cass. Del Rey. He will meet Melville Long, the present champion, this afternoon in an endeavor to wrest from him the title for 1911.

Miss May Sutton and Miss Mary Browne of Los Angeles easily defeated Mrs. Niemeyer and Miss Anita Meyers of San Francisco in the doubles and it went the title for the year for this event.

Splendid contests in the numerous other events also featured the day's play. C. Foley and Melville Long handily retired Sumner Hardy and Nat Browne in the men's singles. The women's singles were won by W. Dawson and W. Mace in the finals.

Young Willie Johnson, a few weeks for Elie Fottrell in the junior event and will doubtless continue to hold that title for another year.

PITCHER MULLIN OUT OF GAME FOR A WEEK

DETROIT, June 24.—Geo. Mullin, the Detroit American League pitcher, is in a local hospital recovering from the effects of an operation upon his nose. An ulcerous growth and two pieces of decayed bone were removed yesterday. It is expected he will be able to join the team early next week.

while at the bat he laid down two perfect bunts with men on the bases.

Portland broke into the stolen base column for the first time this week, Chadbourne getting one and Ryan another. At that time Mitz helped a wee bit for he was a little shy on his pegging. The steals did no damage though, so let it go at that.

Tomorrow, in the morning, the two teams will battle at Fremont Park, beginning at 10:10, while in the afternoon they move over the bay, commencing the season at 2:30.

Wolverton played a clever game at third and cut in with a couple of hits that helped the good cause along.

The first three times Hoffman faced the pitcher he grounded out to Peckinpaugh on the fourth trip he grabbed off a clean single to right and then worked his way around the plate.

SCIENCE OF WELSH IS TOO MUCH FOR MATTY BALDWIN

Britisher Outpoints and Outgenerals Game Youngster From Boston

(By EDDIE SMITH.)

It was a debate wherein the fellow who had burned the midnight oil studying over the finer points of his profession was awarded the decision over a stronger, more aggressive and better lasting opponent. Such might have been the proper way of explaining the difference in ability between Freddie Welsh and Matty Baldwin had their affair of last evening been one of words and not fists.

As it is the explanation holds good, for when, Referee Eddie Hanlon raised the hand of Freddie Welsh indicating that he had been awarded the decision, he did so because the Britisher had out-jabbed and out-generated his stocky opponent, aided by a superior knowledge of the boxing game.

If the boxer was to be rewarded for gamesmanship and persistence, the game little Boston lad would have shared the honors of the affair with the crafty Welshman, but as the points of the game must be scored by hitting the other fellow and not by taking a punch in futile attempt to rush the opposing boxer, the result was a foregone conclusion. By every count by which the points of boxing are scored.

With his five and six more years' experience in the boxing game Freddie Welsh has practiced and studied more of the science of boxing than has Baldwin, who has Baldwin with his more than nine years, and in the battle of last night this study helped wonderfully in the winning of the contest.

Welsh has a reason for every move that he makes during a contest and seldom makes a false one. Baldwin, on the other hand, tried persistently to baffle the clever Britisher with rushes that meant little and a number of times he was utterly thrown himself off his balance by moves that meant little to him from the offensive point of view.

WELSH WORKED ON LINES. The story of the contest is best told by saying that Welsh worked along the lines of most resistance all the time, always on his balance, punched cleanly and straight all the time, had any number of tantalizing and damaging slips, jabs and uppercuts to use in the clinches and breakaways and although he was as sturdy as an ox, he never finished the better because he saved himself the unnecessary labor Baldwin executed in his endeavor to take the battle by storm.

At every one of the real sciences of boxing Welsh excelled and the fact that he refused to be misled by his opponent or made false movements did much to help him finish as strong as he did. Welsh was a real boxer, but he said that although he was being systematically beaten by a cleverer man who used all sorts of tantalizing methods and punches, that never once did he sidetrack his duty.

From the very first to the last Baldwin was coming all the time and at times he made the Britisher sit up and take notice.

By his showing of last night Matty Baldwin surely wins the right to future matches with the great Welshman. In the ring for many moons and pitted against him, Matty would give a great account of himself for many moons and pitted self.

EVERETT BROWN TO REFEREE GAMES AT PITTSBURG

CHICAGO, June 24.—The committee having in charge the National Amateur Athletic Union championship games at Pittsburg, June 30 and July 1, has chosen Everett Brown of Chicago to referee the National A. A. U. Union. In all probability, all of the winners and place men in the various events will be chosen to represent the United States in the Olympic games to be held at Stockholm, Sweden, in July, 1912.

JIMMY WHALEN WANTS TO AGAIN COME BACK

SACRAMENTO, June 24.—Jimmy Whalen, former Coast League pitcher and hero of many a hard-fought battle on the ball diamond, has been using for several weeks and is now about town with a cane. Whalen says he will be back to the harness again and to sign with one of the Coast League teams. He broke his leg in a game at Tacoma in the Northwest League a few weeks ago and was released at once by Tacoma.

OLD-TIME OAK BOXMAN IS CLEVER WITH GUN

COLUMBUS, June 24.—Lester German of Aberdeen, Md., yesterday was high man among professionals shooting in the professional and amateur tournament, the aftermath of the grand American handicap. German's score was 198 out of a possible 200. The amateur honors were won by a Cleveland amateur, who scored 196. German also won the double target competition, breaking 89 out of a possible 100.

McFARLAND CALLS OFF

BOUT WITH TOM MURPHY

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 24.—Because of a disagreement between the officials of the Badger Athletic Club and the McFarland interests over details concerning the proposed boxing contest between Mack McFarland and "Tommy" Murphy in Milwaukee on June 30, the match was cancelled last evening.

HARRIMAN LINE GOES TO OTHERS

Frank Warehouse Company Closes Deal for Portland & Asiatic Steamship.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 24.—That the Frank Warehouse Company has about closed a deal for the purchase of the business of the Portland and Asiatic Steamship Company which will retire from the trans-Pacific trade, after having operated for years the only line that plied regularly between Portland and the Far East, is a report which has been in persistent circulation around shipping offices for the last two days.

Brookfield Statter, general manager for Statter & Co., and the agent of the Waterhouse line at Portland is in Seattle. The headquarters of the Waterhouse Company are there, and it is said that Mr. Statter has been on the Sound in connection with the deal which is said to be pending.

The Portland and Asiatic Steamship Company has four steamers plying between here and Hongkong and way ports—the British steamship Strathclyde, the Norwegian steamships Rygia, Henrik Ibsen and Hercules.

The Waterhouse Company recently entered the trade from this port also, and has four steamers of from 10,000 to 12,000 tons capacity running between Portland and the Orient, each of which is provided with passenger accommodations.

UPRIGHT LIVING MAY SAVE HIM FROM JAIL

PORTLAND, June 24.—Alf Killman, alleged cattle rustler and all-round bad man, wanted as a fugitive from justice from Waynesburg, Mo., will not be turned over to the Missouri authorities if Circuit Judge A. F. Cantenbein can be shown that since Killman came here, six years ago and assumed the name of G. W. Smith, he has led an honorable and industrious life.

Two hundred neighbors of "Smith" say he is an exemplary citizen and have petitioned the court not to sanction his removal from this state to Missouri.

Killman is alleged by the Missouri authorities to have jumped his appeal bond after having been convicted and sentenced eleven years ago in that state for cattle stealing.

He was arrested here several days ago, and an officer from Missouri is on his way to Portland expecting to take his prisoner back to Missouri.

SHAKESPERIAN CRITIC DIES MYSTERIOUSLY

NEW YORK, June 24.—The man who was found unconscious in a room at the Hotel Albany and taken to a New York hospital, died there yesterday. He was identified later as Benjamin L. Wilson of Cornwall, N. Y. The superintendent of hospital said the case was a mysterious one and that an autopsy would be made by the coroner.

Benjamin Lee Wilson, well known as a Shakesperian critic and writer, was born in New York, Oct. 4, 1873. He was educated at Cornell and in 1895 went to Augustin Daly and worked under him for several years, combining acting with the study of drama. From 1895 to 1900 he filled the place of headmaster at the New York Military Academy at Cornwall, N. Y., leaving this position he founded the Wilson School for Boys. His best known work is "The Evolution of the English Drama."

WASHING DODGES THE WATER WAGON

Washington Officials Adverse to Making City an Arid Waste.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Senator Works of California is looming very large in Washington just now, not only because of his efforts to lecture the Senate into good behavior, but because of his campaign to reform the District of Columbia. The Senator's bill re-stating the number of saloons in the national capital to 100 and their location to the business districts has created a storm of opposition which is not confined to the members of Congress who feel that in the warm weather it would be a hardship to walk from Capitol Hill to the business district to get a drink.

Differences of opinion between the commissioners of the district and Senator Works bill cropped out at the meeting of the district committee yesterday morning. The commissioners recently made an adverse report on Works' bill, while the Engineer, Commissioner Judson was before the committee. He said that the people of the district, generally, are not in favor of the bill.

"I do not think it is for them to determine," he replied Works in substance. "This is the national capital and belongs to all the people of the country. It is a question for them to determine through their representatives here."

The men of the district do not take kindly to the suggestion that they should have no say in the number of saloons they may have.

MARRIES, THEN TELLS PARENTS

Petaluma Maid Breaks News of Her Wedding Over the Telephone.

PETALUMA, June 24.—Miss Rita Connolly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Connolly, of this city, was married Wednesday in San Francisco to Herbert J. Amesbury of Healdsburg. The Rev. Father J. J. Dollard of the Church of the Holy Redeemer performed the ceremony, after the service the bride telephoned her parents in this city of the marriage, which was the first intimation they had of the affair. The bride was graduated with the class of '09 of the Petaluma High School.

Edward Raymond Jewell of Petaluma and Miss Anita Rolfschneider of San Francisco were married in San Francisco Tuesday.

Randall Bell, son of Captain Horace Bell, of this city, was married Tuesday by going to San Francisco, where he and Miss Pauline Kapler of that city were married.

Miss Helen Currier of Petaluma surprised her friends this week by going to Redwood City, where she was married to Harry W. White of San Francisco.

The date of the wedding of Miss Evelyn Hall of this city and Mr. Floyd McAllister of San Francisco has been set for July 3.

RATES ON LUMBER TO BE REDUCED

Harriman Lines to Cut Tariffs From Washington to Points in California.

SEATTLE, June 24.—A reduction on lumber rates in Washington, on the Harriman lines to points on the Southern Pacific in California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona and New Mexico, was announced yesterday. The new rate becomes effective July 1.

The reduction amounts to 70 cents a ton on the through rate from Seattle and Tacoma and 60 cents a ton from Grays Harbor points. Heretofore the rate from these points has been the full combination of rates on Portland and Grays Harbor, which is subject to both fine and imprisonment.

Railroad officials point out that the measure of regard for those who have the wherewithal to secure accommodations, when he is given free of charge, and landed heavily on the "poor devil" whose purse is not long enough to provide entry to any but ordinary passenger cars.

All of the latter class of patrons who intrude their way into the train, and who are placed under arrest by the conductor and turned over to the first police officer, sheriff, constable, judge or justice of the peace seen. This same class of persons must be careful not to be intoxicated before boarding the train, as they will be subject to the same treatment.

SANTA FE'S PROPOSED RATE RAISE HELD UP

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Tariffs filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Santa Fe system of railways, making advances in rates on commodities for year. We believe it to be one of the most efficient expropriations on the market. Containing no opiates or narcotics, it can be given freely to children. Enough of the remedy can be taken to relieve a cold, as it has no nauseating results, and does not interfere with digestion. Yours very truly, C. H. Ward Drug Co., C. L. Parsons, Sec'y and Treas. FOUNDER OF SCHOOL BANK SYSTEM DIES

NEW YORK, June 24.—John J. Phily, father of the public school savings bank system and at one time owner of the famous book shop on lower Broadway, died in his ninetieth year yesterday at his home in Long Island City. Phily was born in Belgium, 1822, and came to this country thirty years later. He opened a shop on Broadway, where he sold only rare editions of books. He was soon commissioned by such men as Vanderbilt and Astor to make selections and purchases for them.

He retired in 1873, and since 1884 had been a member of the local school board. In 1885 he suggested establishing a savings bank in each school to receive the pennies of children. His plan was immediately adopted, and today there is on deposit in this country $2,000,000 of the pupils' money.
